Initiative of 14 Year Old Youth Responsible For Heart Fund Dance

For seven years Robert S. Moss, 14, of 283 Highland avenue, West Newton, was afflicted with a rheumatic heart condition. Today Robert is the picture of health and well enough to participate in school sports activities.

To show his appreciation for all the help the National Heart Fund has given him, Robert Moss decided to do something for the heart campaign. Without any help, and on his own initiative, he has organized a committee of young people all his own age to sponsor a dance to be held at the Normandie Room, Norumbega Park, Auburndale, Saturday for the benefit of the Newton Heart Campaign of 1950.

What prompted young Robert Moss to exercise so much initiative was the death of one of his school teachers Mr. Edward W. Blue at Levi Warren Junior High School in West Newton, of a heart condition.

Mothers who like to make their own bread can forget about the time when they had to wait three to five hours for it to rise and be baked. Pupils in the foods classes at the Warren Junior High School have tried, and proved, a way to bake bread in just forty-five minutes. They do it by cooking with a controlled temperature. First the dough is placed in the oven for one minute. The flame is turned off and the dough allowed to rise for fifteen minutes. After the dough is shaped into loaves, it is placed in the oven again for one minute, then taken out and allowed to rise again for fifteen minutes. Now the bread is ready for baking. Pupils tasted it and agreed that it was as good as any bread that required a much longer time to prepare.

English Pupils Record Voices

Members of Miss Avis Walsh's Junior III English classes have had their voices reproduced on the wire recorder. Pupils read their own appreciation of individual poems selected by them for study. The voices will be studied in an effort to improve the speech of individual pupils.

Vacation Activities

In spite of the sub-zero and stormy weather, both teachers and pupils took advantage of the week's vacation to enjoy winter sports, theaters, and many interesting as well as educational trips.

Miss Avis Walsh spent her vacation in New York, visiting Miss Eleanor Dimick, a former Warren teacher. While there she saw "South Pacific" and "Death of a Salesman".

Miss Mildred Bourdon, teacher of Jr. II Social Studies, visited the temporary home of the Boston Museum of Science. She spent a most interesting afternoon seeing exhibits of jet propelled engines, man-made lightning, African water holes, underwater life, and snakes.

The Misses Wilma Thompson and Eileen Collins joined the ski enthusiasts at Jackson, New Hampshire, while Miss Ethel Green enjoyed a week of winter sports in Maine.

During her stay in New York Miss Norma Dooley visited Columbia University and also attended performances of "South Pacific" and "Mister Roberts".

Pupils who remained at home during the vacation enjoyed skating and skiing at Brae Burn Country Club and other nearby spots. Visitors to other winter sports areas were Sarah Jones and Joyce Domling who went to Alexandria, N. H., Norman Grimm to Franconia, N. H., Freddy Wells to Laconia, N. H., and Paul and Chris Duncan to North Conway, N. H.

Eddie Currier of Room 12 spent his week trapping and shoveling snow, while Doris Brennan said she enjoyed "coasting on cardboard".

Susan Crowell of Room 202 went to Chicago, Illinois, and visited the John Aiden Planetarium, the Shedd Aquarium, and the R.K.O. Palace Theater, where she saw "Cinderella".

Denise Maher of Room 302 spent the week in New York and Pennsylvania. Alice Crandall, also of 115, visited relatives in New York.

Among movies and other performances enjoyed by pupils during the vacation week were "Cinderella", "Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep", "Battleground", "Suspect" as presented by the Belmont Dramatic Club, and the "Ice Follies".

Bobby Barrett of Room 11 left Warren Junior High School last week when his family moved to North Hollywood, California, where his father will play on the L. A. baseball team.

But," he added, "education is effective only when it leads to better living and eventually into a field of work good for the student to follow and good for society to have him follow. It is only when education is put into controlled action that we get constructive results.

"It is vital that we instill a keen sense of moral direction in those whom we are educating for action."

According to a report to the police, Mr. Phyllides was operating a vegetable truck on Commonwealth Avenue and Mr. Larkin was proceeding north on Walnut Street when the collision occurred. The truck tipped over on its side while the sedan was badly damaged and had to be towed away.

A new name which may soon be expected to appear among the synthetic textiles is "dyne" which is said to be suitable for shirts, curtains, blankets and men's suits and to resist moths, flame, mildew, acids and alkalies.

Many school children attended the exhibit which had special hours for them. A special case was also arranged for them. It contained a family of dolls, Chinese coins and stamps, dainty hair ornaments and toys. Mr. Robinson gave the children a personally conducted tour of the exhibit and presented each with an old Chinese coin as a keepsake.

Several former residents of China wearing beautifully embroidered Chinese coats and jackets served as guides to the exhibit. Those who assisted in this way were: Dr. Lora Dyer from Foochow, Mrs. H. L. Robinson from Tungchow in North China, Miss Hazel Bailey from Peking, Mrs. R. E. Chandler from Tientain, Mrs. Roderick War I.

When Cadillac says New...

... it's News!

WHEN Cadillac announces that basic changes have been made in its design, it means the Standard of the World has once again been raised.

And that, of course, is news of the first magnitude.

This year, the number of Cadillac changes is far, far greater than is normally announced.

There is, of course, glamorous new beauty. All the bodies have been completely restyled and redesigned and are simply gorgeous in their line and contour.

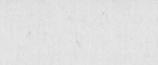

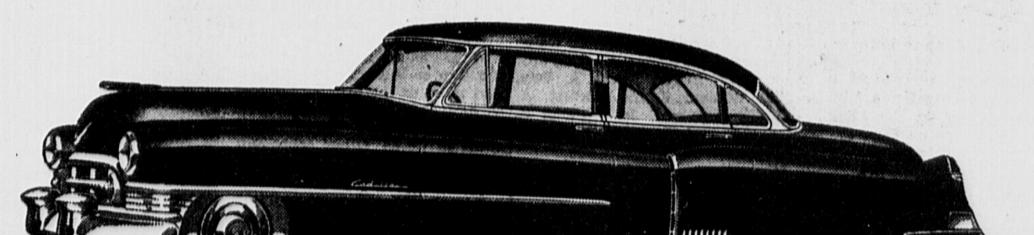

The great new Cadillac high-compression engine has undergone a host of refinements which enhance every phase of its performance.

Road balance and handling ease are remarkably improved. Steering is easier; braking is softer; and the car's stability on turns and curves is phenomenal. Almost all the effort has been taken out of driving.

Yes—this is a Cadillac "vintage" year—when its engineering and designing and manufacturing have all produced at their superlative best.

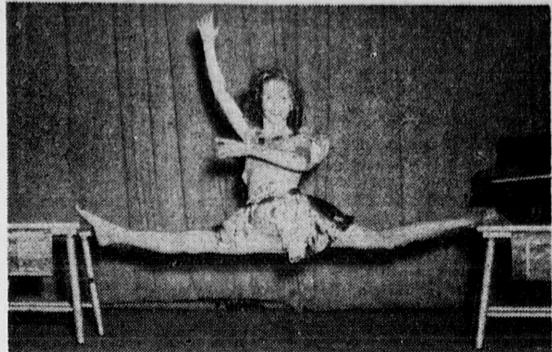

Better come in—and come up... to Cadillac.

A surprise engagement shower was given by the Board Members of the Newton Junior Community Club for Miss Dorothy Wells, recording secretary, at the home of Mrs. Robert Burns, Monday, February 27. Gifts of a sterling table lighter and matching ash trays were given jointly by the board and club members.

Table decorations carried the bridal theme with a large white petalled bell hanging over the center and a floral arrangement of American beauties on a sterling tray in the center of the table. Mrs. Alvie Jorgensen and Mrs. Robert Daniels poured, while the prospective bride cut the cake which also was decorated in a shower theme of pink umbrella icing with garnishes of silver drops and pink roses.

The next event will be an open meeting at the Newton Y.M.C.A. Tuesday, March 7. The Newton Juniors will be a hostess club for Arlington and Wollaston. There will be a presentation of three plays by the group. The public is invited to attend. The Mailing of the Green Day after day, the activities of the little town of St. Patrick, Missouri, the only one in the world, grow greater as every inhabitant, all 82 of them, rehearse for festivities which will get underway following the solemn high Mass on St. Patrick's Day. The welcome signs will be set out along the highways leading to town for miles and the hundreds of visitors will join in the continuous round of dances, songs and attend the plays depicting St. Patrick's onslaught against the pagan practices of King Loigaire.

It was 113 years ago that a band of Irish immigrants settled in this little spot in Missouri and even today the population is composed almost entirely of persons of Irish ancestry. The little frame church which is the center of activity is guided by Father O'Duignan, who is also the unofficial mayor.

In 1937 the Post Office Department authorized the postmaster to affix to each piece of mail posted at the little postoffice, an Irish Shamrock and the name of St. Patrick, Mo., has since spread throughout the world as more than 20,000 pieces of mail pour in each year for the postmark and cachet.

Because so many persons annually seek information as to how to obtain this postmark and cachet, the following directions should be followed:

Address envelope in the usual manner to yourself or to friends. Leave at least 2½ by 2½ inches of space to the left on the address side of each envelope for the shamrock cachet. Purchase a postal money order or postal note at the postoffice in an amount equivalent to the postage for the number of envelopes being submitted—3 cents for each. Enclose the envelopes in an outer wrapper, together with a brief note requesting green stamps be affixed, the cachet and postmark of March 17th. Seal the outer envelope or wrapper, address it to the Postmaster, St. Patrick, Mo., and affix postage at the first-class rate. Be sure that it is mailed in time to arrive not later than March 16th.

How Much Anti-Semitism?

Is anti-Semitism in America growing or declining? That is a question many Americans would like to have answered. Various attempts have been made to gauge the amount of such intolerance in several realms of American life.

One assumes that with education certain prejudices disappear. But one is not always certain at exactly what level of educational process reason begins to supplant emotional likes and dislikes. A study made some months ago in Philadelphia, tends to show that prejudice came into being when the individual is very young. It was indicated that children of pre-school age made distinctions between Jews and gentiles, whites and Negroes, Protestants and Catholics; and it was further shown that the family pattern of thought transferred to the child almost always took the form of dislike for any group that was different from that to which the child belonged and from which he absorbed his ideas.

But college students ought to have acquired a measure of tolerance in their outlook on racial and religious differences. A report released recently by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith tends to show that is a fact.

The report reveals that college students show less anti-Jewish prejudice than the country's population as a whole. The report is based on a study of social distance attitudes among both college seniors and freshmen conducted for the League by the Elmo Roper organization. It shows that the college students are overwhelmingly opposed to quota systems and other discriminatory admission policies. What was surprising, however, was that seniors in college were no more without prejudice than were college freshmen. Does that fact prove that college as an experience does not have the liberalizing effect that a broadening educational experience is supposed to have? Or does it prove that by the time a youngster has finished high school work he has already been trained as much in lack of prejudice as he ever will be?

The survey was made on the campus of 50 colleges during the autumn of last year. There are more Jews in Eastern than in Southern or Far Western colleges; yet the incidence of prejudice was greater in the South and in the West. Apparently Catholic and Protestant students reacted in just about the same way; no significant difference could be noted. Fraternity and sorority students exhibited more prejudice than did those who were not members of Greek letter societies.

The study could be of more value if the same individuals who were interviewed last Fall, were asked the same question in 1959 or 1969. Would the answers differ in large proportion? Is it possible that young people are more realistic than adults and that the constantly increasing part which education is playing in American life may steadily reduce the types of prejudice which now exist? One can hope that such is the case.

What the nation needs, in addition to a good five cent cigar, is a Congress able to vote courageously in an election year.

Don't Be a Heel at the Wheel

What makes an automobile driver an Emily Post as a host and a heel at the wheel?

The answer to that question would go a long way toward solving the traffic accident problem which brings death to more than 30,000 Americans every year.

Common courtesy is so important to safe driving that the month of March has been designated by the National Safety Council for a nationwide campaign on motor manners.

The propaganda guns will be leveled at these six highbinders of the highway:

Gangway Gus—This is the fellow who gallantly holds the door open for ladies or patiently waits his turn at a buffet luncheon. But at the wheel he's a "me-first" guy who bluffs out the right-of-way at every intersection, weaves and jockeys through heavy traffic and forces pedestrians to jump for their lives when turning corners.

Sid Scatback—"What's the rush?" is his motto at home when it's time to mow the lawn or dress for dinner. But the minute he climbs in his car, every second counts. He roars away from stoplights, fudges on stop signs, slides his passengers off the seat when he stops, and on the open road keeps the speed needle around the 70 mark.

Ronnie Rulebook—This character lectures his son on playing the game according to the rules. At the bridge table he's a junior grade Culbertson when he quotes chapter and verse to his partner. But to him the traffic regulations were written by dopes, and he breaks them every time he thinks he can get away with it.

Tom Tooter—At home and in business, he believes that a "soft answer turneth away wrath." But at the wheel he has a horn for a brain and blasts his way through traffic by sheer volume of sound. Many a pedestrian is prematurely gray from meeting him.

Bert Bullhead—This fellow can be either a driver or a pedestrian. He just won't give in to the other guy. He carries a great big chip on his shoulder and dares anyone to knock it off. But in the drawing room his friends think he is an agreeable cuss.

Gil Galahad—In his home, this fellow insists that you take the most comfortable chair or have the last piece of steak. But don't try to take the last parking space from him, or he'll lock fenders with you at the drop of a hat.

If everybody obeyed the law there would be no need for sheriffs and judges. But then, can anybody go through the day without breaking some law?

We're all for a tax on cats. Are they any better than dogs?

There are always friends who stick to you through your prosperity and good fortune.

The trouble with many people in this day and time, is that they are perfectly willing to be neighbors to the people of every other country but unwilling to be neighbors at home.

Modern experts worry lest our children get too little play; several generations ago the worry was that they wouldn't get enough work.

Government would probably be better if it was not in the hands of those who recommend themselves so highly.

Pointers on Ice Safety and Rescue Work Is Outlined

Frank Dowcett, Chairman of Water Safety in the Newton Red Cross Chapter, brings to the public's attention some pointers on ice safety and rescue work recently published by a member of the organization's national staff in Safety Services.

"Thin ice," it is pointed out, "is one of the main causes of serious skating accidents, particularly at this season of the year. However, it is almost impossible to give hard and fast rules regarding thickness of ice for safe skating since the quality of the ice also is important. One guide commonly used is: one inch, keep off; two inches, one may; three inches, small groups; four inches, O. K. However, this definitely doesn't always hold true."

"Newly formed, or 'young' ice in its early stages is quite transparent, and is sometimes called 'black ice' because the dark water shows through. Tough and elastic, it may crack in all directions under a person's weight and still not give way. However, it is not safe for skating unless at least two inches thick, and in most cases, it should be four inches thick for group skating. Hot sun and warm winds, especially at the end of the season, or during a midwinter thaw, often loosens the crystal structure and strength of the ice."

"When someone breaks through the ice, his first impulse is naturally to get out of the icy water quickly, so he grabs at the ice at the edge of the break. But when ice is so weakened it usually won't stand the pressure of such a pull and the victim finds himself only making the hole bigger and still making no progress toward safety."

The best method of self rescue, according to Red Cross experts, is to kick your feet to the surface and extend your hands and arms forward on the unbroken ice. Then kick your feet and squirm over the ice so that you can work your way along the surface. At the same time, the prone position on the ice will distribute the weight better so there is less likelihood of a breakthrough again. Once on firmer ice the victim can roll or squirm to safety.

Another common error of skaters is to congregate at the

Favors Arcading Buildings

Editor, Newton Graphic:

During the last fifty years the traffic conditions in our Square at Newton Corner have been getting steadily worse, while our neighbors in Watertown have improved their Town Square and made it slightly and convenient.

Our problem can be solved, I believe, at not too great expense by arcading the buildings on the west side of the Square. Thirty years ago while I was on the Board of Aldermen I proposed this and the City Engineer, a very able man, studied it and reported it could be done and would be very useful and not very expensive.

This would mean that portion of Centre and Galen streets and Washington street bordering on the square would be widened by removing the present sidewalks and putting them inside the present buildings. The stores are all deep enough so this would not injure them for store purposes and their value might even be improved by giving them a side-walk covered in stormy weather.

I wish our present City Officials would make a study of this suggestion.

This would mean that the driving space in the square would be much increased in area and where it meets its most.

YOU MEET SUCH INTERESTING PEOPLE

by Robt. K. Christenberry
President of the famous Hotel Astor

I had all I could do to keep him from singing 'Dear Little Buttercup.' Not because he doesn't have a good voice, but out here in the halls in front of his students was no proper place. We ducked into his modest little office and I breathed a sigh of relief, feeling I had saved a career . . . or at least prevented a scandal. How wrong I was!

Vernon B. Kellet, headmaster of the famous St. James School in Washington County, Maryland, was not only a teacher, but a singer and an actor and right proud of his accomplishments.

"Them who can, do," said Vernon. "Them who can't do, teach," he added, "and I do a bit of both."

I was soon to learn what a gross understatement that was, for I found out shortly thereafter that I had been invited to St. James to witness a performance of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pinafore" directed and staged by Mr. Kellet himself. Furthermore, he had understood every part in the show and was even ready to step into the role of Buttercup should it be necessary.

Here now I began to understand why Vernon Kellet was so successful in revitalizing the St. James School. Mr. Kellet had been called in by the Bishop of Maryland when the fortunes of the school were low.

I had always thought that teaching was a secondary interest in Vernon's life. For as far back as 1919 following his honorable discharge from the Army as a 2nd Lieutenant in the Field Artillery, he had entered teaching as a temporary expedient, hoping to go on the stage and eventually into opera. Had he done so, he would have perpetrated a crime against our nation's heritage. For I know of no man who could have done for the historically famous St. James School what Vernon Kellet did for it.

As he handed me several aged letters, he began to talk about the school. And here, his enthusiasm betrayed his first love.

"I know of no private school at the secondary level which has so interesting a history as St. James," he said. "It is the oldest church school in the United States. Its roots strike deep into the history of our country."

I had never realized how important a role the school played in our country's history. The school was once the mansion of General Ringgold who came to this section of the country in 1790 with a bride and a grant of 18,000 acres. This beautiful old colonial mansion was designed by Mr. Latrobe, architect of the nation's capitol. It was to these halls that fashionable society from Washington came in the early 19th century. Dolly Madison was a frequent guest here.

In 1842, the mansion became the College of St. James under the direction of Dr. Kerfoot. On the eve of the Battle of Antietam in September 1862, more than half of the student body left in protest of the Yankee sympathies of Dr. Kerfoot and joined the Confederate Army as it moved up the Sharpsburg Pike to the battlefield.

In 1864, Dr. Kerfoot was arrested and the school was closed until some years after the Civil War in 1869.

"We know from these letters," said Mr. Kellet, "that Stonewall Jackson spent some time on the school grounds, that Fitzhugh Lee and other famous Confederate officers were here."

I lifted up the letters Vernon had handed me and in trying to make out the scrawly handwriting, my mind wandered and I marveled at the fate that led this English-born, Harvard-trained northerner to the rescue of a famous Southern school.

What would old Dr. Kerfoot have said could he know that an actor-singer was now headmaster of his school, I thought!

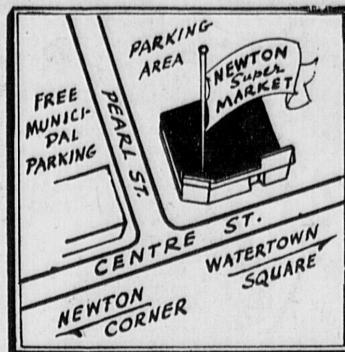

But it was past time for thinking now.

"The curtain's about to go up! Let's hurry!" shouted Vernon as he roused me from a kind of reverie. We left the office and headed for the auditorium. As we hurried down the corridor, I could hear Vernon humming 'Dear Little Buttercup' to himself. A few moments later I joined in. You know, it's a wonderful melody.

be offered at the dance in competitive dancing. Mr. Roy Gill, owner of the Normandie Room, offered the use of the hall free to the youngsters.

The only expense left was the hiring of an orchestra. Here Robert Moss proved himself a man of great resources. In order not to deplete the contributions, he devised a "sponsor ticket" which is being sold to grownups only. This ticket does not entitle the purchaser to attend the dance. Five hundred of these tickets have been sold, which will allow enough money to pay for the musicians and incidentals. What is not used will be turned over to the Newton Heart Fund whose chairman is Mr. Norman E. Moore of 302 Highland Avenue, West Newton.

An example of how these teenagers work is the savings affected by the printing of all tickets within the printing class of the Warren Junior High School. All posters were drawn by James Gorgone, 15, of 100 Lexington street, Auburndale, a student with artistic abilities.

Others on the committee which have done the bulk of the work are—Diane Ransome, 15, of 6 Elsworth road, West Newton; Shirley Read, 15, of 126 Towne terrace, Auburndale; James Flagg, 15, of 50 Falmouth road, West Newton; and Joseph Barry, 15, of 211 Highland Avenue, Newtonville.

Miss Barbara Muther and Mr. John Willoughby Lacy Wed

In the First Church in Chestnut Hill, Saturday evening at 8:00 o'clock Miss Barbara Muther became the bride of Mr. John Willoughby Lacy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clive W. Lacy of Newton Centre. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walter Muther of Newton Centre.

Wearing a white satin gown trimmed with heiroloom lace from her mother's wedding gown and a fingertip veil of illusion caught with orange blossoms, the bride carried a bouquet of white roses, lilies of the valley and orchids. The bride had her sister, Mrs. Edgard Dodd Brown, Jr., of River Forest, Illinois, as matron of honor. She was gowned in rose taffeta and lace. Wearing similar gowns of pale green, the bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Walter Muther, Jr., of Medford, a sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss

Art Exhibit and Duo Pianists To Be Presented

At the monthly meeting of the Newton Centre Woman's Club March 10, Marie Porter Mather and Kathryn Whitfield Ford, talented residents of Newton Centre will present a program of music originally composed for two pianos. Starting on that same day, the Art Committee will exhibit for a week every afternoon, except Sunday, from 2:00 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the Club Art Gallery some unusual examples of "Photo-Sculpture."

This is the work of the well-known sculptor, Henry Rox, professor of art at the Worcester Art Museum and Mt. Holyoke College, who, as a hobby, transforms fruits and vegetables into amusing and clever little figures which he photographs with striking effects.

Mr. Rox's pictures have been used for books and magazine series and also movies. His children books have such titles as: "Tommy Apple and His Adventures in Bananaland," "Tommy Apple and Peggy Bear," "Banan Circus," The "Fruit orchestra" in the Metro Goldwin Mayer musical: "Strike up the Band" was designed by Mr. Rox and executed under his supervision. Recently his statue of Saint Joan of Arc, commissioned by the Liturgical Arts Society, received very favorable comments when exhibited in New York. It was reproduced in "Life" and in many other magazines.

Members of the Art Committee are: Mrs. Vaughan Dabney, Chairman, Mesdames W. Cornell Appleton, Walter H. Bird, Alan J. Bronold, Thomas Cavanaugh, Martin J. Connally, Elmer W. Davis, Louis H. Fitch, Francis M. Fonseca, R. Raymond Gorton, Leo V. Hand, Herbert J. Ham, Ralph G. Hudson, Howard P. Kling, Walter D. Knight, Wm. C. Loring, George W. Palmer, 3rd, Harry M. Ramsay, Carl E. Trapp and Miss Bessie Taylor.

The bride chose her mother's ivory velvet gown and a veil of rose point lace which was originally worn by her paternal great-grandmother. She carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and gardenias. Miss Jean H. Lyons of Auburndale, the maid of honor, wore a rose taffeta gown. Similarly gowned were the bridesmaids, Miss Ruth M. Howard of Worcester and Miss Barbara M. Hunt of Boston.

Mr. Clarence L. Barnett of Follansbee, W. Va., was best man for his brother. The ushers were Mr. Alexander Towt of Englewood, N.J., and the bride's brother, Mr. William Alexander Smith, Jr., of West Newton.

The bride is a graduate of Colby Junior College. Mr. Barnett served with the armed forces and attended Boston University. The couple will make their home in West Newton.

Lobby Movies in the Newton Y.M.C.A.'s free "Look, Listen, and Learn Series" for the four Monday evenings at 7 P.M. in March are scheduled as follows:

March 6 -- "Wings to Cuba and the Caribbean" and "Liberia: Africa's Only Republic."

March 13 -- "King Who Came to Breakfast," "Gentle Art of Meat Cookery," and "Washington: Shrine of American Patriotism."

March 20 -- "Safeguarding Speechways," "Wings to Alaska," and "Romance of Industry."

March 27 -- "That Boy of Mine," "Danger Point," and "Eternal Gem."

"Comin' Round the Mountain" Enjoyed by Capacity Audience

The Auburndale Club House was filled with a capacity audience in observance of the Auburndale Womans Club's Annual Guest Night. The president, Mrs. Keith Parris, welcomed the guests and thanked the husbands for their forbearance and cooperation in order that their wives might carry on the club work. Mrs. Parris introduced her officers and the Secretary, Mrs. Herbert Haake, read notices of coming events.

A one-act play "Comin' Round the Mountain" was then given and highly enjoyed by the audience. "Hill-Billy" in nature, each part was very well cast and the costumes and stage properties very fitting. The play was under the direction of Mrs. Edwin Harkins with Mrs. Albert Holdridge serving as prompter, Edwin Harkins as stage manager, Mrs. Kenneth Amidon in charge of properties, and Mrs. Theodore Friedricks and Mrs. Irving Kelley doing the make-up. The selling of tickets was in charge of Mrs. F. Payson LeBaron, and the advertising posters and programs were done by the Art Committee, directed by Mrs. Albert Everett. The members of the cast were as follows:

Mrs. Horatio Rogers Re-elected President of Nursing Ass'n

At the annual meeting of the Newton District Nursing Association held in the Newtonville Assembly, Mrs. Horatio Rogers was re-elected president.

Miss Elizabeth Porter, general supervisor of the association presented the report of the year's work in the absence of Miss Hilda Nelson, director. Miss Porter also presented her own report in which she reported the growing emphasis on co-ordination between the hospital and the community.

After the business meeting, Dr. Leslie MacMillan spoke on "Our Children—Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow."

Other officers elected were: Mrs. Thomas H. Lanman, first vice-president; Mrs. Matt Jones, Jr., second vice-president; Mrs. Harry N. Guterman, treasurer; Mrs. Clinton W. Tylee, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Worthing L. West, secretary, and Mrs. Theodore D. Clark, assistant secretary.

Directors elected, term to expire in 1953, include Mrs. Stanley R. Anderson, Mrs. John T. Croghan, Mrs. Sheldon D. Dunlap, Mrs. Irving J. Fisher, Mrs. William T. Glidden, Jr., Mrs. Joseph B. Jamieson, Mrs. E. E. Kattwinkel, Miss Mabel L. Riley, Mrs. Charles P. Slocum, Mrs. Theron B. Walker, Mrs. Philip L. Warren.

City Government

Sanitation Division
Newton Health Department

By HARLAN W. KINGSBURY, Chief Sanitation Officer
Another in a series of feature articles presented by The Graphic as a public service to better acquaint the citizens of Newton with their government.

Harlan W. Kingsbury, Chief Sanitary officer of the Newton Health Department, was graduated from the University of Massachusetts and majored in Dairy Science and Bacteriology.

His experiences are many in his chosen field inasmuch as he has served as a Laboratory Technician, Manager and Pasteurizer in a milk plant, also as District Sanitary Officer with the State Health Department. In the latter position, Mr. Kingsbury covered 51 cities and towns in the Commonwealth developing programs of inspection and sanitary control of milk, food and environment.

Mr. Kingsbury's major hobby is flying. He has 130 solo hours, as an amateur, to his credit, and flies week-ends and holidays around New England. He has organized a flying club of thirty-five male and female flyers and they have built their own airport.

I welcome this opportunity to tell the people of Newton about some of the little-known activities of their Health Department, especially the Sanitary Inspection Division.

Our job in this division is to see that Newton's 50,000 odd citizens receive clean wholesome food to eat, safe milk to drink, pure water to use and healthy environment in which to live. This is a large order and requires a lot of work, but I find it so interesting and diversified that the work never becomes monotonous.

Q. That is a large responsibility. Do you have help with your work?

Yes. Most of the work is done by three sanitary inspectors and a laboratory technician who is also a qualified inspector. I consider myself very fortunate to have four well trained men with whom to work. Most of them are college graduates. Each inspector has full responsibility for one third of the city. He makes all the inspections, takes all the samples and investigates all the complaints in his district. His work includes all problems of milk, food and general sanitation.

Q. Let us start with food. Just for an example, how do you inspect a restaurant, and how often do you do it?

We inspect all the eating and drinking establishments of Newton once a month. We use a score sheet which lists twenty three items. This score sheet was adapted from the one recommended by the United States Public Health Service. If upon inspection, all the items on this score sheet are found satisfactory, the restaurant will score 100%. However, each item found unsatisfactory deducts its relative value from this score. For example: if improper dishwashing methods are found, fifteen points are deducted from the restaurant's rating. Lack of handwashing facilities would penalize five points and so on down the list. Several years ago the State Health Department surveyed Newton's eating facilities using this same score sheet. At that time the city as a whole scored 86.7 which was the highest in Massachusetts. We are proud of this score and have now set our goal as 90% or better.

Q. What do you do if it is not clean?

If an establishment is not clean, or does not meet our requirements in any way, we call the proprietor's attention to the correction which must be made. We explain the public health reasons for these corrections and even roll up our sleeves and show the proprietor how to carry out our instructions. Our inspectors are no longer the rough and tough type of olden days. Instead, the modern inspection method is the use of education and demonstration. If this method does not bring the desired results we then invite the offender to a conference with Dr. Morris, our Director of Health. Here we politely explain what must be done. If this conference fails to bring compliance, our next step is court action. Newton proprietors of food establishments are sanitation conscious and have been very cooperative; consequently, court action was resorted to only four times during my three years as Chief Sanitary Officer.

In addition to visual inspections, bacterial counts are taken from glasses, cups, spoons, and forks in all establishments once a month.

Q. Why do you choose THESE utensils? Why not knives, plates and saucers?

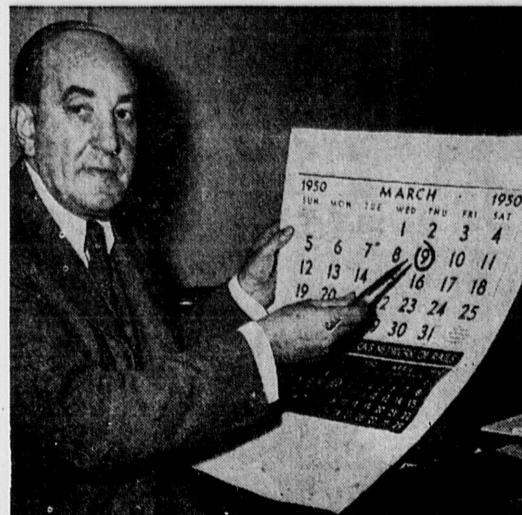

We choose these utensils because they are the ones which go in and out of people's mouths. Therefore, they can carry diseases from one person to another thru their medium. One certainly would not use another's toothbrush and from a public health standpoint it is just as bad to use another's teaspoon unless it is previously sanitized. All these bacteria tests are made in the Health Department Bulletin, "Your Health." This bulletin may be obtained by Newton residents by calling the Health Department.

Food establishments such as bakeries, meat and fish markets, grocery stores, ice cream factories, food wagons, bottling plants and others are inspected as often as possible at least ten times a year. These food stores are also rated and must comply with our food laws. Whenever our inspectors find food unfit for consumption it is condemned and made unfit for use by pouring ammonia or soapy water over it so it cannot be retrieved and used.

Q. You mentioned milk. Just how do you go about protecting Newton milk supply?

Milk inspection is a very important part of our program. It takes approximately one third of our time. Milk is our most valuable food, yet the most perishable and dangerous. It is a good food for man and also bacteria; therefore, we must be very careful about its production and distribution. All milk sold in Newton must be pasteurized in order to kill disease producing bacteria. We also require that the day of the week the milk was pasteurized be stamped on the bottle cap. This is to prevent the sale of returned milk or milk four or five days old.

There are twenty-eight dealers delivering milk in Newton. Their pasteurizing plants are inspected regularly and the operators required to comply with all milk regulations. We never hesitate state to take the machinery entirely apart in any plant to insure cleanliness. If dirty equipment is found, no milk is allowed to be processed until the machinery is cleaned.

WATCH FOR YOUR EASTER Seals March 9 — Arthur L. Lewis, prominent Massachusetts industrialist, who is chairman of the 1950 Easter Seal campaign, conducted annually by the Bay State Society for the Crippled and Handicapped, Inc., points to the date on the calendar when packets of seals will go to more than a million Massachusetts residents. Proceeds from the campaign support a wide variety of projects filling the unmet needs of crippled youngsters in this state.

Newton's milk supply comes from Maine, New Hampshire, and Vermont. Each inspector takes his turn to visit the receiving stations of this area to inspect.

Q. Why do you travel so far? Why don't you wait until the milk arrives in Newton before you test it?

The milk must be tested at this up-country point because it is here that bloody milk, sour milk, dirty milk and diseased milk can be found and rejected before it is mixed with the supply shipped to Newton. Finding poor milk in a bottle when it is delivered on a Newton doorstep is too late, for then the milk is already in the hands of the consumer.

There are many tests that can be made on milk at the receiving stations. The sediment test shows the amount of foreign matter in the milk. Temperature tests show whether or not the milk will keep. Milk can inspections reveal dirty, broken or rusty cans which will contaminate the milk. These cans are condemned and removed by the inspector. Microscopic examination, however, is our best judge of the quality of milk. When milk is examined under the microscope, the amount and type of bacterial contamination can be seen. All Newton inspectors are trained to use the microscope. Whenever the inspector finds any of these violations, he returns the milk to the farmer with the polite suggestion that he feed it to his chickens or pigs because it may not be shipped to Newton.

Our inspectors do not have much time to inspect individual farms. This work is done by the State Health Department. However, if trouble persists on any farm, our inspectors have the authority to inspect and exclude them if necessary.

Q. This sounds like interesting work. Do they have other problems besides food and milk control?

Yes, there is another phase which I call environmental sanitation. It includes problems concerning water supply, bathing beaches, nuisances, cesspools, public toilets, poultry yards, insect, rodent, and mosquito control.

Our laboratory analyzes fifteen samples of Newton's drinking water weekly to make sure it is safe. Six of these are from the raw supply and the other nine are from the treated supply taken in nine sections of the city. Our inspectors also sample Newton's bathing areas weekly during the summer. If the tests show the water unsafe for swimming, the Recreation Department is notified and that particular bathing area is posted and swimming is prohibited. In the past, swimming areas along the Charles River have been generally unsatisfactory. We have been forced to keep them closed most of the time. Considerable work has been done by your Health Department and the State Health Department recently to eliminate factory wastes and private sewers from entering this stream. Accordingly we hope that the Charles River will in the near future be safe for bathing. Tests taken on Crystal Lake are almost invariably satisfactory. The YMCA pool is also tested all year round and has had an excellent record.

Nuisances concerning garbage, rubbish, dumps, and sewers continue to be Health Department headaches. The American Public seems to have the bad habit of throwing refuse on streets, in alleys and on vacant lots. It is often necessary to take pictures as evidence to force the cleaning up of some of these areas. We could use a great deal more cooperation from businessmen and citizens to prevent such fly, rat, and mosquito breeding health hazards. Over four hundred permits to keep poultry are issued yearly by the Health Department. Many of these require an inspection and a consultation with the neighbors before permits can be granted. All public toilets in gas stations and railroad stations must be maintained in sanitary condition. We consider sanitary conditions in schools very important; therefore, toilets, lavatory facilities, and showers are inspected in our Newton schools twice a year. Just one more duty to add to the inspector's already long list, is to inspect the undertaking parlors. These must be maintained almost as clean as hospital operating rooms because there is considerable chance of spreading disease through this profession. All undertaking parlors are licensed by the Health Department.

So you see the life of a sanitary inspector is never dull. From chasing bacteria to being chased by a farmer's bull is all in a day's work.

Q. What about mosquito control? Do you do that also?

No, we do not, but we see that it is done. Newton's mosquito control is done by the East Middlesex Control Unit which is a cooperative project of ten surrounding cities and towns. It operates under the state reclamation board and is in charge of Robert L. Armstrong who is an expert in this work. All Newton's mosquito breeding areas are noted on a map of which there is a copy in my office. These areas are sprayed as often as necessary to prevent the breeding of mosquitoes. This is done by hand from motorcycle, jeep, boat, airplane or helicopter. So, if you see a low flying airplane over a Newton swamp, next summer, do not become alarmed for it will probably be the Mosquito Control Unit doing its work and not a crash landing. One of Newton's biggest contributions toward mosquito control work in this vicinity was the installation of a pump to drain Purgatory and Scribner swamps. It is in the mud of these swamps that the most ferocious biting mosquito, the Mansonia Peturbans, breed. Another item which is an important part of our mosquito control is the spraying of Newton's six thousand street catch basins. This is done three times every summer and is done by a motorcycle spray unit.

So, this is briefly what keeps our sanitary inspectors busy and may I add that we show many visitors and school classes through our office and laboratory at City Hall. We welcome them at any time.

J. M. McDonough Receives Double Honors At B.C.

James M. McDonough, 21 Durant street, Newton, received a double honor in recent elections at Boston College, where he is a senior in the College of Arts and Sciences. He was elected vice-president of the Fulton Debating Society and president of the Boston College chapter of the Alpha Sigma Nu, the national Jesuit honor society.

A graduate of Cheverus High School, McDonough has made a brilliant record at Boston College, both in academic and extracurricular affairs. He is a member of the exclusive senior honor society, the Order of the Cross and Crown, for which the qualifications are so exacting that only 22 out of approximately 1200 seniors were considered eligible this year. Last November he received the added honor of being selected one of several seniors eligible for appointment to the Alpha Sigma Nu honor society.

McDonough has also been a prominent member of the Marquette debating society, a reporter for the College weekly, "The Heights," and an active member of the College sodality, in which he now serves as treasurer of the senior class. Prior to his election to the office of vice-president of the Fulton Debating Society, he served as secretary in the same organization. He is a native of Portland, the son of James and Nora McDonough.

Enjoy Movies Of Telephone

Last Tuesday evening the Messiah's Men's Club of Auburn-dale, held their monthly meeting in the Church parlors.

A delicious dinner of chicken-a-la-king was served the men
by members of the Tuesday Evening Club under the direction of Mrs. Ralph Hall.

The guest speaker was Lawrence R. Crosby, manager of one of the downtown offices of New England Tel. & Tel. Mr. Crosby illustrated his talk with movies of the 1938 hurricane and explained how many telephone men from out West came here to the East to help restore the telephone service. He went on to explain how sound is transmitted over the telephone system.

Mr. Crosby explained that during the war, when materials were scarce such as wire, cable, etc., and Newton's population was expanding, there was a backlog of about 7,000 people waiting for new lines and change of party lines. Since the war, a telephone building has been built, new cables run and that the needs of the people of Newton are being met rapidly.

There were about 45 men present.

Two Couples Hold Wedding Anniversaries

Two Newtonville couples celebrated wedding anniversaries at a party Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E.
Yarrott, 62 Highland avenue.

About 56 guests were present to honor Mr. and Mrs. Yarrott who were married 20 years ago in Springfield, and Mr. and Mrs.
Robert A. Procter of 65 Highland avenue, who observed their 15th anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Procter were married in Concord, N. H.

Mrs. Yarrott and Mrs. Procter wore long black dinner dresses with corsages. Barbara Yarrott, 13, gowned in shell pink, was assisted in serving as receptionist by her brothers, John, 19, and Richard, 17.

The Procter's young daughter,
Pamella, 7, wore a long blue tafta Empress Josephine dress trimmed with pink. Robert Procter,
Jr., 13, and Albert Yarrott,
Jr., 14, home from St. Andrew's Academy in Barrington, R. I., for the weekend, assisted in serving the guests. Mr. and Mrs. Procter have a daughter, Karen, aged 12 months.

The house was decorated with lights and flowers sent by friends. After the opening of the gifts, the hosts and hostesses danced to "The Anniversary Waltz." In addition to a buffet supper, wedding cake, ice cream and coffee were served.

Many pictures were taken of the cutting of the cake which had been baked and decorated by Mrs. Bruce Wolff of Needham, a close friend of both couples.

Robert Merrill, 17, Garner street, Newton Centre, was 2 years old on February 15th and his birthday was announced on a recent broadcast of the Young Timers Club program.

Miss Gerry Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Moore, who is a junior at Colby Junior College, New London, N. H., was awarded a prize for her poster advertising the Colbytown Winter

Says It a Great Pity That Corner Was Neglected

Guest speaker at the luncheon meeting of the Newton Realtors at the Newton Y.M.C.A. last Thursday was Parker Webb, member of the Board of Directors of the Boston Real Estate Board. Prominent in real estate activities throughout New England, and particularly in the recent development of shopping areas in the Boston Metropolitan area, Mr. Webb stressed the importance of Realtor action toward town and city improvement. He advised the Realtors to take their naturally ordained place in the scheme of community development and progress. He pointed to accomplishments of the City of Quincy in business advancements through shopping area improvements, with much credit due their local realtor organization, as well as their city officials who have appropriated one quarter million dollars to provide which he called the finest shopping parking lots in New England. These lots accommodate more than 1000 cars, he said.

He called it a great pity that the Newton Corner area had been so neglected over the years which he said was sad reflection on the foresight of earlier property owners. He said that the towns and cities that do not keep pace in modernizing their shopping areas with emphasis on adequate parking facilities, will find their communities suffering through loss of business to those centers that are alive and active to current demand.

Maxwell H. Robson, Chairman of the Board, presided at the luncheon.

Newtonville Youth Injured in Crash

In a crash of two cars and two trucks last Friday night eleven miles north of Jefferson City, Mo., on U. S. Highway 63, Ben Clark, 21, of 363 Walnut street, Newtonville, was among the eleven injured and four killed. The young men were members of a Columbia, Mo., boxing team. The highway patrol said a pickup truck tried to pass a moving smashed into the car. The second car swerved to avoid the wreck and hit the moving van head-on, the patrol said.

Bloodmobile Unit Here March 22

The Bloodmobile Unit is scheduled to visit the Chapter House, 21 Foster St., Newtonville, March 22 from 1 P.M. to 7 P.M. Mrs. Levensohn, director of the Blood Program hopes that the following letter which was written by a very grateful recipient of blood given through the American Red Cross Blood Program, will induce many Newton people to call LASell 7-6006 at once to make an appointment to donate blood.

"When those of you who are scheduled for the next visit of the bloodmobile go to keep your appointment please go with a very special 'thank you' for me, for I have learned what it means to be on the receiving end. It takes a long time to 'receive' two pints of whole blood — about three hours, and as you lie there and watch it, drop by drop, it is impossible not to think of those who gave it. You get to wondering about the persons; who he was, where he lived, what he did for a living, how far he had to go to give the blood, how much it may have inconvenienced him, how many times he may have given before, and how he came to give it in the first place.

Open House to Be Held at Hospital

Plans for an Open House to show the hospitals new wing are being made for March 25, 26, Mr. Edward B. Gray, hospital president, has announced.

While it will not be possible to show all of the new building at once, Mr. Gray stated, the laboratories and at least two patient-area floors will be open for inspection. In addition there will be the newly re-modelled Coffee Shop.

Further plans will be announced as they are developed. Mr. Gray stressed that all who are interested are urged to "come and see."

According to Fire Chief Corcoran, the roof has caved in, and the walls in the rear of the building are bulging dangerously. The front walls of the block, also, are in hazardous condition and there is a distinct danger of the brick walls toppling into the street.

The fire in the over 100 year old Beacon Block started suddenly about 9:30 Saturday night and was discovered by Alton Green, manager of the Liggett Drug Store, who called the fire department. The Parke Snow Company, Liggett's, and several other establishments, including the Newton Lodge of Moose and the Colonial Table Tennis Club which had rooms on the upper floors, suffered practically complete damage.

The blaze was believed to have started in the basement of the Parke Snow store. When the fire apparatus arrived a second alarm was sounded immediately and then another. Apparatus came from Waltham, Watertown, Belmont, Boston, Needham, Wellesley and Brookline. The fire spread from its source into the Liggett's store and that of the Newton Music Shop.

Hoseslines stretched across trolley tracks halted trolley service and the MTA stopped its cars at Oak Square, a mile from the fire and began running an emergency bus service that by-passed the fire. Ten families, occupying apartments in the Stephens Block, which adjoins the Beacon Block, were ousted by smoke but returned to their quarters when the fire was under control.

"Fair Start" Made in Red Cross Campaign

First reports on the progress of the 1950 Red Cross Fund Campaign indicate a pledge of $16,133.85, or slightly better than 20% of Newton's goal of $76,140.00.

Pointing out that this could only be considered a "fair start" Fund Chairman Douglass B. Francis made it clear that the volunteer solicitors have been faced with "pretty rugged weather conditions" in which to get the campaign under way.

Provision for this building was made recently when the issuance of bonds for public buildings was authorized by the city government.

Moore Says GOP Must Give Young Group a Place

The nationally discussed question of where the Republican Party is going and with whom is becoming an increasingly interesting topic in Newton. Recently there were published some remarks of a West Newton attorney criticizing an earlier proposal of some young Republicans to re-vitalize the party by the presentation of younger candidates. In response to this criticism some interesting observations were made by Norman Moore, well known Newton business man, who has been active on the local political scene for some time, and who is rumored to be considering running for office in the next election.

Mr. Moore said, "The spokesman for our critics revealed a very interesting concept of what constitutes a 'young man.' One can only draw the conclusion that, in his opinion, youth begins somewhere in the forties, and in the late forties at that.

"However," Mr. Moore continued, "age in and of itself, of course, should not be decisive. What is being sought is a recognition and a utilization of younger men with the guidance and cooperation of experienced Republican leaders who understand the changes taking place in a growing community such as Newton.

"The Republican Party is faced with a real problem of popularization on a vast scale, particularly in Massachusetts where another defeat such as that of 1948 might have disastrous and far-reaching consequences. The problem is perhaps

Subject to Talk

At the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club held Monday, Robert Goldrich, graduate of the Newton High School in 1940, and who is now connected with the North American Research Company, was the speaker. He took as his subject, "A Young Capitalist Abroad."

Mr. Goldrich is a strong advocate of Capitalism and after studying both systems all over the world he is convinced that the other way doesn't work. He has visited forty or more countries, selling American production methods so that those abroad will be better able to take care of themselves by raising standards of living and eliminating waste in industry.

He cited one example where in Italy with an investment of $8000 it was possible to reduce the price of gypsum from 60¢ to 30¢ a pound and thus increase the number of employees from 100 to 300. He spent a week in the Russian Zone in Germany while in Europe. He said that American sales ingenuity are world famous and workable only because of capitalism.

"Should Husbands Do House Work?"
Naturally, or So The Ladies Say

A very spirited discussion was held at the Rebecca Pomroy House, a Newton Red Feather Agency, by the Mothers' Club when six women participated in a debate "Should Husbands Do House Work." Mrs. Arthur Osterberg, Mrs. Mary Kearney, Mrs. Helen Farrar, took the affirmative side while Mrs. May Aiello, Mrs. Bella Norton and Mrs. Louise Delgizzi spoke for the negative side. The affirmative side won with Mrs. Osterberg backing up her statements to the best advantage. However, the group seemed to bring out the fact that a home where all co-operated would provide the most happiness in that family. Boys as well as girls would benefit by learning what a home can do for stability; by learning how to buy; by assisting in all tasks in order to have a real appreciation of what makes up good family life.

Miss Martha Boothby and Miss Etta R. Gates were the judges. Following the discussion Mrs. Jennie Francione, chairman of the refreshment committee, assisted by Mrs. Elvira Costa, served refreshments.

It Should Be Controlled

Unrestrained puppyism of 16-20 year old automobile drivers is one of the most dangerous on the nation's highways today. Youngsters' unbridled emotion is responsible for this dangerous situation.

The desire for thrill, exuberance, enthusiasm, lack of respect for the power of an automobile and the havoc it can cause, the show-off desire to demonstrate driving skill, all ride in some degree with teen-age drivers. Many boys and girls reflect a combination of these urges plus a level of mentality and judgment inadequate to cope with the responsibility of driving a car. Because effective accident prevention must start with a clear knowledge of causes, the problem lands squarely in the laps of parents. According to a study made of the problem, parents must do five things:

Determine whether or not their teen-age driver, or drivers, are handling the family automobile or their own car safely, make sure they know how to drive the car safely, know the rules of safe driving, know the law. Determine just how their teen agers are behaving on the road, find out whether they are acting sensibly and safely or whether they are driving so foolishly and wildly as to endanger themselves and all other motorists.

On finding that their teen agers are "showing off," seeking thrills, proving their skill, etc., parents must analyze the situation to find out what is causing their children to do these things.

Having determined cause, parents must replace this unsafe thinking with a safe driving attitude, through discussion, example and education.

Failure to effect correction leaves only one sound alternative—denial of the privilege of driving until the teen-ager demonstrates his willingness and ability to handle driving responsibility properly and safely.

There should be no substitute for this unpleasant but necessary penalty of "no driving." For, sure as "taxes and death," the dare devil acts of the teen-ager; driving no hands, overloading the car, driving and drinking, speeding, taking chances; will mean a highway death for him, for those driving with him and for those other motorists who are unfortunate enough to be on the road near him.

The exuberance of youth should not be denied but when it comes to driving, it should be controlled, and controlled most effectively.

The Virtues of Freedom

Those who believe that in order to compete with totalitarian powers in the cold war, we must imitate their methods and principles, find no friend in Dr. Vannevar Bush, the brilliant scientist who directed much of the top-secret arms research and wrote the recent distinguished best-seller, "Modern Arms and Free Men."

We cannot meet the Russian threat, he said, "if we turn this country into a wishy-washy imitation of totalitarianism, where every man's hand is out for pubulum and viril creativity has given place to the patronizing favor of swollen bureaucracy."

Dictatorship can compete with dictatorships, and a free virile democracy can outpace any such in the long pull. But a people bent on soft security, surrendering their birthright of individual self-reliance for favors, voting themselves into Eden from a supposedly inexhaustible public purse, supporting everyone by soaking a fast disappearing rich, scrambling for subsidy, learning the arts of political log-rolling and forgetting the rugged virtues of the pioneer, will not measure up to competition with a tough dictatorship."

The total state, or the socialist state, or the welfare state, or whatever you wish to call it, always achieves one thing, as certainly as tomorrow follows today. It weakens and finally destroys initiative, self-reliance and human, individual enterprise. It can't help but do that—where is the need to think and work for ourselves when an all-powerful, all-wise state is doing it for us?

And if we want to do something for ourselves, the chances are that we'll be financially unable to do it, because the state takes most of our income to pay for all our "security" and "welfare."

This generation has lived through two world wars which were won by the achievements, courage and labor of free peoples. It is now living in a chaotic age, in which millions of human beings have become the important subjects of slave states based on slave philosophies of government—and in which only the free peoples have a living standard much above the level of a zoo. If that isn't example enough of the virtues of freedom, what is?

Political Highlites

Because of the confused Republican picture at the present time, some of the G.O.P. leaders have proposed that an informal party gathering be held to select candidates for Governor and Lieutenant Governor.

The meeting, if it is held, would be little more than an expression of opinion by those in attendance, would not be binding upon the Republican voters and would mean little except for the publicity it would give the two candidates favored.

It is unlikely that the semi-convention will be held. There is a danger that it might lead to a real battle within the Republican party, and such G.O.P. figures as former Attorney General Clarence A. Barnes have made it plain that they would not be bound by any action taken.

The fact, however, that suggestions have been advanced for such a meeting may point to a return to the old Republican State conventions which were discontinued after 1936.

Some G.O.P. politicians feel that the nominations made at those conventions served to guide voters who took only a casual interest in political affairs.

Others, however, believe that the Republican nominations were largely dictated by powerful party bigwigs, and that was the principal reason for discontinuing the conventions.

Under the system followed, a candidate turned down at the State convention could and often did run for the nomination in the party primary. But while the Democrats frequently upset the convention nominations, the Republicans rarely did, and the G.O.P. candidate who carried the convention endorsement usually was pretty sure of winning the party nomination.

Charles H. Cole was the choice of the Democratic convention for Governor in 1934, but James M. Curley defeated him in the primary. Philip J. Clinton, the secretary to the late David I. Walsh, was selected by the Democratic convention as its candidate for Lieutenant Governor in 1936, but Francis E. Kelly upset him in the primary, and that was the last convention of its kind held in Massachusetts.

The proposal for an informal G.O.P. convention is an indication of the jumbled condition of Republican affairs at the moment.

Former Governor Robert F. Bradford now looms as quite decidedly the strongest candidate his party could run against Mr. Dever, but Bradford very understandably is not too interested in waging a pitched battle in the Republican primary for the privilege of fighting Dever in November.

Former Lieutenant Governor Arthur W. Coolidge feels much the same way about it. He'd run if the field were cleared for him, but even some of his own party members are not too enthusiastic about his cracker barrel style of campaigning.

Coolidge nosed out Dever in the 1946 election, but he was carried into office on the crest of a great Republican surge, and his margin of victory was much smaller than was Bradford's on the same day and under similar conditions.

It is understood that a gubernatorial boom will be launched this week for State Senate President Harris S. Richardson, but in the minds of most observers Mr. Richardson fairs a good deal short of being a colorful and potent candidate for the Governorship.

So it's understandable that some of the Republican policy-makers are beginning to get just a little bit fidgety and are suggesting such steps as an informal convention.

Reports persist in political circles that for former Mayor James M. Curley may be a candidate against Governor Dever for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in the primary next September.

Even some of the persons closest to the ex-Mayor declare that they would not be at all surprised if he were to take out nomination papers for the Governorship next summer.

There is a strong difference of opinion among Mr. Curley's political advisers and friends as to whether he should run for Governor this year. One group is urging that he do so. A second faction is advising against it, arguing that a bitter primary battle might cause such a rift in the Democratic party that whoever won the nomination would be defeated in the election.

It may be significant that neither the Mayor nor anyone authorized to speak for him has declared that he won't be a candidate for the Governorship.

When his son, George J. Curley, was asked about it the other day, he said his father will make no political plans for the future until he returns from Europe early in June.

The Curleys are planning to sail from New York for Naples on April 14, and the former Mayor apparently intends to leave all political plans in abeyance until he returns from that trip. The chances are that he will not be a candidate for public office this year, but it is still much too early to rule out entirely the possibility of his running for Governor.

Know YourCity Government*The Board of Aldermen

BY WENDELL F. BAUCKMAN, President

Another in a series of feature articles presented by The Graphic as a public service to better acquaint the citizens of Newton with their government.

Alderman Bauckman is now in his ninth year as a member of the Board and was first elected President of the Board for the years 1948 and 1949 and again on January 2 this year for the years 1950 and 1951. He is in the leather business in Boston and his avocation is most unusual—that of a Pigeon Fancier. He has won many prizes with his High Bred Homers.

Q. How many citizens comprise the Board? How many are elected At-Large and how many by Wards?

Our Charter authorizes twenty-one Aldermen, three each from our seven wards, elected for a period of two years.

Each ward has one Ward Alderman and two Aldermen-at-Large. The Ward Alderman appears only on the ballots of the ward in which he is to be elected. Whereas the Aldermen-at-large appear on the ballots throughout the entire city.

In other words a ballot for Ward 5 contains the opportunity to vote for one Ward Alderman and fourteen Aldermen-at-large, two each from the seven wards.

Q. Would you tell something about how the Board is organized, your duties and the appointment of the Standing Committees and their duties?

About two weeks before inauguration on January first the newly elected Board of Aldermen holds its caucus and elects an organization and adopts rules for two years.

This organization consists of President, Vice President, City Collector, Treasurer, Comptroller and City Clerk.

It then becomes the duty of the President to appoint the Standing and Select Committees which are announced on Inauguration Day. Standing Committees are authorized by the Rules and Orders of the Board of Aldermen. Select Committees are authorized by the Board.

The Standing Committees are: Finance, Public Works, Claims and Rules, Franchises and Licenses, Public Buildings, Education, Legislation and Kenrick Fund.

The Select Committees are: Street Traffic, Municipal Parking and Meters, Ward Lines and Street Renaming.

The usual procedure employed in appointing committees is to set up the personnel for Finance, Public Works and Franchises and Licenses utilizing the entire Board of twenty-one Aldermen.

The Senior Alderman from the point of yearly service in each ward is usually selected for Finance Committee. The exception is in cases where a Chairman of Public Works or Franchises and Licenses is retained to head either of the two mentioned committees.

As you might expect, Finance Committee handles all matters relating to appropriations of money, salaries, pensions, bonds and mortgage loans under the Horace Cousins Industrial Fund, Newton Retirement System and all other matters affecting the finances of the city. It might be well to state here that the Board cannot initiate expenditures of money. All requests for appropriations must originate with the Mayor to be acted upon by the Board of Aldermen.

Q. What part does the Board of Aldermen take in the making up of the Annual Budget?

The most important matter coming before the Board of Aldermen at this time is consideration of the annual "Budget," making appropriations for all Departments and Boards of the city for the current year. Under the provisions of the Municipal Finance Law applying to all cities of the Commonwealth, the Mayor is required to send to the Board of Aldermen on or before Feb. 15th his recommendations for appropriations for the year, and the Board of Aldermen is required to approve, reduce or disapprove the recommendations on or before April 1st. This work by the Board of Aldermen is not done in a perfunctory manner, but all recommendations are given careful and serious consideration before final action is taken. When the "Budget" is received, it is referred to the Finance Committee, and in addition matters relating to public works, such as streets, water and recreation are referred to the Public Works Committee, matters relating to the public buildings of the city are referred to the Public Buildings Committee, and matters relating to the schools are referred to the Committee on Education. The annual "Budget" is rapidly approaching the ten million dollar mark, the exact total in 1949 being $7,928,303.56 with many additional supplementary appropriations after passage of the "Budget." Many conferences with Department Heads are held by the Finance Committee, and with the experience of many of the older members serving in the Board many reductions are made, often times in many very desirable and worthwhile projects, particularly in the Street, Water or Recreation Departments, which are postponed for another year. Much time is given to the matter of salaries, particularly in the Police, Fire, Buildings and Public Works Departments, in order to secure as much uniformity as possible. Special laws relating to School Department appropriations somewhat limit the powers of the Board of Aldermen in respect to its expenditures, which in 1949 took $1,991,040.35, not including Buildings Department expenditures for maintenance of buildings, etc. Bond issue appropriations, of course, are in addition to this.

Q. What about the various Standing Committees?

Public Works Committee handles all matters relating to the construction, repair and maintenance of public ways, public grounds, drains, sewers and water.

Franchises and Licenses Committee is concerned with matters relating to public service corporations, licenses and permits. Applications for certificates of incorporation, renewal of auctioneers' licenses, permits for taxi stands, pool rooms and bowling alleys are a few of the matters that come before this committee.

Newton Places Second In G.B.I. Track Meet

Just four points behind pace-making Medford High, which was the top team with 35 points, Newton High amassed a total of 31 to assure them of second place in the G.B.I. meet, which took place at the Boston Garden last Friday night.

Newton was first in Junior Division 45-yard hurdles, run by Norm DiGiovanni at a time of 6.6, the 600 frost-soph, performed by George Flynn Jr. at 1:21.6, and the senior relay team turned the trick for first place with a time of 1:29.7.

In the three divisions, the Orange placed second in the senior circuit, with 11 points, third in the junior, totalling 8, and compiling 12 points in the Frosh-Soph Division for second place.

The crack relay contingent, consisting of Bill Hudson, Bill Bradbury, Fred Hermans, and Bill Kingston, accounted for five points toward the senior's total of 11, which put them behind B.C. High who took first place in that class with 14 points.

In the New England Interscholastic last Friday night at the Boston Garden, Newton's fast relay team, which won the Class A championship last month, went on to greater heights taking a first in a two-lap relay at a time of 2:29.3. The baton passers, Monroe Carter, Don Halloran, Bob Morrison, and Bob Evans, beat out LaSalle Academy of Providence, R. I., and Newton finished the meet with eight points, tying with South Portland, Me., for fourth place.

Bob Shannon placed second in the 50-yard dash, contributing three digits to the Orange's total for the evening. LaSalle Academy won the meet for the third straight year with 20 points.

In the also ran department, Bill (Crunchy) Cronin of Our Lady's High, posted a first in the Junior Division 300-yard race of the G.B.I. meet. Cronin, who also plays football and hockey for the Purple and Gold, speeded to a record setting time of 34.9. Other O.L. participants were Roy MacLean, taking part in the 600 junior race, Dan Hern in the junior dash, and Charlie Akens, who entered in the senior 600. Except for Cronin, none of the other O.L. contestants managed to hit the pay-off column.

Teacher-Parent Partnership Is Desirable

The need for a partnership between teachers and parents was stressed by Miss Doris Almy who was guest speaker at the meeting of the Frank F. Carr Parent-Teachers Association Wednesday night.

Miss Almy is public relations director of the Massachusetts Teachers Federation. She is also a member of the Board of managers of the Massachusetts Congress of Parent-Teachers Association.

The meeting was featured by the formal opening of the redecorated teachers' room at the school. The task of doing over the room was one of the major projects for the year of the PTA of the Newtonville School.

A student participation program will be the feature of the April 12 meeting of the group.

Ray B. Fredrickson, 24 Oxford road, Newton, was one of 52 students and faculty members who were initiated Saturday night at installation exercises and dinner of Eta Kappa Nu's new Gamma Beta chapter at Northeastern University, 360 Huntington avenue, Boston.

Our Lady's Lose First Game of Tourney

By Ed PISELLI

Unable to match their superior rebound game with a comparable show of hitting power, Our Lady's basketball squad was eliminated in the first day of competition last Friday afternoon by a well-drilled Matignon High quintet from Cambridge, 46-36, in a Class B quarter-final game of the Mass. Catholic Basketball Tournament, played at the Boston Arena. Greatest thorn in the Gallagher's side was the unerring, deadly hook shot of the Cantab's tall, rangy Tom Cullinane, who personally defeated the Purple and Gold by tossing in a total of 22 points. Coach Charlie Gallagher's high man for the day was spunky Barry Waters with 15 points to the good, but not enough to stem Matignon's second half tidal wave, that wrote finish to further gains by the locals.

Our Lady's first half 20-19 edge evaporated at the start of the second chapter, and at the end of the third quarter, the John Sheehan-coached outfit built up a sizable 36-31 lead. The locals fell apart completely in the finale, tossing up a meager five points, while the Cantabs sealed their fate with 10 markers, eight contributed by Cullinane.

Mike Bowman, rough and ready forward of the Gallagher aggregation, was next in line with nine points, and turned on a fine display during the first quarter, helping his mates off to an 11-7 margin. Usually high-scorer Dick Butler could only realize a scant three-point total. If Butler had been in top form, the final outcome might have been different.

Ray Girouard came in for a layup at the start of the second half, putting the Cantabs out ahead, 21-20. Waters placed himself for a swish set shot and Bowman drove in for a layup to edge out again, but this lead was cut to one when Henry Shea connected on a side push shot.

A Bowman foul was matched by a similar try by Eugene Boyle, followed by another charity toss

Sherman Paper Products Corporation Announces Election of Three Executives to New Positions

EVERETT D. SMALLEY

JOHN H. HERRICK

JAMES F. McLAUGHLIN

George Sherman, president of the Sherman Paper Products Corporation, Newton Upper Falls, has announced the election of three executives to newly created corporate positions.

Everett D. Smalley, who was formerly Comptroller of the Kieckhefer Container Corporation, and prior to that with the Eddy Paper Corporation in the same capacity, has joined the Sherman organization as Executive Vice-President.

John H. Herrick, who joined the company as Regional Packaging Engineer, and rose successively through the positions of Specialties Division Sales Manager and General Sales Manager, will become vice-president in charge of Sales.

James F. McLaughlin has been promoted from the position of Plant Manager to that of Vice-President in charge of Manufacturing. He was formerly Plant Manager of the Butterick Company, and, before that, was for many years Production Manager in container industries. Mr. McLaughlin has recently moved to Newton, having purchased a home at 1141 Commonwealth Avenue.

statesmen who have proved by their services that they have an appreciation of the demands of our times, and whose personalities are of such a positive character that they can successfully communicate their principles to the general public. But, it must be borne in mind that if a party is to continue as a growing and active force in the political community it must give the younger element of that community true representation lest it find in the not too distant future that youth has turned elsewhere.

As to the remark of his critic that Democrats must be making these suggestions about re-vitalizing the Republican Party, Mr. Moore commented that it hardly seemed worthy of notice, adding, "The political history of the last twenty years forces any objective observer to the conclusion that the Democrats are well satisfied with the status quo and will be even more satisfied should it continue."

"Of course," Mr. Moore continued, "the question of age of the representatives of any political party is not the only factor which must be considered. More important are imagination and personality. It has never been suggested by the group which I represent that any Republican leader he cast aside merely because of his age in years. Indeed the younger element sincerely desires the cooperation and guidance of those experienced elder blood so that you can do something for him in return.

"Then you realize the donor must remain forever anonymous; that there is nothing that you can ever do for the particular person whose freely given blood is now flowing into your veins, giving you the strength you need for the coming day, the strength that may perhaps mean life itself. And then a great thankfulness comes to your heart at this tangible evidence of man's humanity to man; that there are people who care enough to give without thought of return, and to give that which cannot be bought, which only they can give, in order that someone, somewhere may be helped. With the blood, warmth returns to your body, and you go to sleep serene in the knowledge that someone cared enough for you, an unknown, to give unselfishly that you might live, and you know in your heart that this is, in a way, a kind of immortality for the giver, who gives Life; and you know that because of it (the gift) that everything is going to be all right with you. So that is why I hope that you who go on the next call and ever after, will take my thanks with you, and so, in a way, receive, in a small measure, the appreciation of the unknown persons for whom you give so generously. I am convinced that I probably would not be writing this today were it not for three people who were animated by the same spirit as yours. When I came from the operating room the next morning another pint was getting me over that last hurdle."

Newton-Wellesley Hospital received notice from the American Medical Association February 28 of approval for two more residencies, Pathology and Internal Medicine. Approval of residencies indicates that the hospital has been inspected in all phases of its activities and is approved for the training of specialists.

Dr. Walter O. Blanchard, Chairman of the hospital's intern and resident committee, reported as well that the approved postgraduate medical training program at Newton-Wellesley Hospital now includes the internship and resident training for varying periods in Surgery, Medicine, Anesthesiology, Pathology and Radiology.

revived. Fireman Peter Forte, also of the Newton department, was taken to the hospital with frozen feet.

All the firemen were obliged to wear gas masks because of fumes from chemicals in the drug store basement, after two explosions in the store-room.

Richard Whipple, manager of the Parke Snow store, said there was about $30,000 worth of stock in the place, all of it destroyed.

Several hundred patrons remained in the Paramount Theatre, unaware of the blaze.

The management said it considered telling the audience about the fire, but decided not to do so when it appeared that there was no likelihood that the flames would approach the theatre.

Upstairs were the offices of John Finelli, lawyer; Charles A. Horn, photographer; the Porcelain Patch and Glaze Corporation of America; Newton Lodge of Moose, and M. Malcolm McCabe, locksmith.

Damage by the fire was estimated at $250,000. The all-out signal did not come until 6:35 a. m. Sunday morning.

A traffic snarl kept police busy all day Sunday at Newton Corner as curiosity seekers from miles around drove to the scene of the fire. Police encircled the building with saw horses to keep pedestrians from getting too close to the structure's weakened walls.

Spring Flower Show Opens Sun.

By Sunday at one o'clock, when the doors of the 79th annual New England Spring Flower Show of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society at Mechanics Building swing open for the week marking the advent of Spring, all the hundred gardens and displays must be perfect.

Not a blade of grass must be bent; not a flower out of order. Meanwhile the acres of Mechanics Building are a Bedlam. Only years of experience can create an Eden out of such chaos. Crews of carpenters, masons, plumbers, plasterers, electricians and painters have gone into high gear. It is a round-the-clock job, this building of houses, waterfalls, ponds, mountains, brooks, walls, terraces, bridges and all the rest.

Constance Ford, sophomore at Denison University, Granville, Ohio, was chosen for University Players, which requires at least 100 hours of theatrical activities.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Montague Ford, 112 Institution avenue, Newton Centre.

"In Ourselves the Future Lies" . . . Conference Theme

"In Ourselves the Future Lies" was the theme of the Tenth Annual Y.M.C.A. Older Girls' and Tri-Hi-Y Conference of Massachusetts and Rhode Island Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, March 3, 4, and 5, at West Springfield, according to Dwight R. Robison, Boys' Work Secretary at the Newton Y.M.C.A.

The Newton Y.M.C.A.'s delegation consisted of: Martha Norcross, 120 Waban avenue, Waban; Elizabeth Ring, 2075 Beacon street, Waban; Nancy Tibbott, 27 Trinity Terrace, Newton Centre; Kay Dolan, 72 Concord avenue, Newton; and Nancy Bruce, 35 Lenox road, West Newton.

Oppose—

Timothy H. Donahue, presenting Msgr. Crane's opposition stated that traffic would be brought closer to the class rooms and interfere with classes. The loss of twelve feet of setback would bring the traffic too close to the buildings.

Former Alderman James E. Murphy registered opposition also contending that the taking of land on the south side of the street would be a hazard because of the heavy foot traffic by school children and churchgoers. He suggested that a plan be studied to move the bridge and construct the street on a straight line all the way to Commonwealth avenue.

Others who registered opposition were Paul Burke of 1463 Washington street, and Reginald F. Putnam, representing his mother, and aunt who own a house built in 1867, at 1482 Washington street.

Director of Public Works Willard S. Pratt explained to the Board that difficulty at the side resulted from the fact that the rest of the street is wider and that parking on both sides, as at present, results in a bottleneck. The plan, he stated, is to take land from both sides to widen the street to 75 feet.

The matter was referred to committees for study.

Jean Hubley of Newton is chairman of the Interfaith Commission of the Y. W. C. A. at Colby Junior College which is sponsoring and arranging a series of five two-day religious conferences on the form of worship. Miss Hubley lives with Dr. and Mrs. Richard C. To Award $25 for The Best Essay

The League of Women Voters of Newton, will award a prize of $25 to the Newton High School student who writes the best essay on "The United Nations in Action." Mrs. James H. Lewis, Chairman of the International Relations Committee of the Newton League, announced this week.

The cash prize will assist the winner to pay expenses toward a visit to Lake Success during spring vacation to witness the United Nations in Action. Essays will be submitted as soon as social studies students complete their study of the United Nations.

The essays will be judged by a committee of three including Mrs. Lewis, Charles Peltier, chairman of the social studies department for the Newton school system and Harold Gores, superintendent of schools.

The Newton League will welcome the public to an open meeting at the Newton Highlands Workshop, 72 Columbus street, Monday, at 8 p.m. Rep. Harold Putnam (R) of Needham and Rep. Ralph Sullivan (D) of Dorchester will discuss current legislation.

Mrs. Ernest Newman of Cambridge, chairman of state legislation for the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts, will act as moderator for a discussion period. Mrs. George Alberts is chairman of the legislation.

In return for the devotion of this large investment, exceeding some three million dollars, the railroad seeks citizen cooperation to the point of increased patronage and if the patronage justifies the action, it is felt certain that more Diesels and more frequent train service will be supplied as a result.

Further comments relative to the controversy about the future of the Republican party in Newton were enlivened this week in a statement issued by William E. Halliday Jr., who asks: "Are these characters who in the dark of the moon leap the fence, the next day to graze placidly with the Republican flock, interested in revitalizing the Republican party?"

In his statement Halliday said:

"Two weeks ago I made a statement to the Graphic which contained the theme, 'Why start revitalizing the Republican party by eliminating Senator Lee?' in response to an article which stated that a 'young businessman' was being urged to seek the Republican nomination for State Senator against our present incumbent.

"The 'young businessman' of whom I asked the question 'Why start with Senator Lee?' published in last week's Graphic a wavy declaration which he felt would substitute for a plain answer to the question. The last paragraph stated that 'as to the present method of lighting, were installed. Again in 1925, several more pendant fixtures of the same design were incorporated in additional construction to the building.

Elimination of the out-moded pendant fixtures, together with the increased illumination and decorative design of the new Fitolite equipment have given the main banking room a soft, warm and most pleasing atmosphere. Relief from the eye strain caused by the glare from a multitude of exposed incandescent lamps was one important factor in the decision to change.

Mobeco, Inc. of Watertown will completely service the installation for the bank. Both bank and the Mobeco management confidently believe that even with more and better lighting, the operating cost will be lower than ever before.

circumstances, posters and cards written, printed, posted or distributed designed to aid or defeat any candidate for nomination or election to any public office, shall bear the names of the chairman and secretary of the organization issuing the same, or of some voter who is responsible therefore, with his name and residence.

Miss Jean Davies, a senior, representing the student publications, will add a current issue of the "Lasell News," and Mrs. Priscilla Madden, President of the Alumnae Association, Incorporated, will put in a copy of the "Leaves," the alumnae publication. Earl H. Ordway, Superintendent of the Lasell buildings and grounds will add a map of the campus.

Parade and Community Chorus Concert to Feature Dedication

ROY S. EDWARDS

The Oak Hill Park dedication committee, headed by Roy S. Edwards, has appealed to nearly 200 service and civic groups in the city for their cooperation. In a letter signed by Edwards, the committee has asked that two representatives of each group be appointed to assist in carrying out the plans.

The dedication ceremony is scheduled for Sunday, May 21 at 2:30 in the afternoon. Senator Leverett Saltonstall will be the principal speaker. Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood and other prominent citizens will also speak briefly.

Present plans call for a parade of veterans and civic organizations and a concert by the Community Chorus. The Newton High School band with those of the Junior High Schools will also participate. Radio Station WCRB will conduct an on-the-spot broadcast.

Speaking of the dedication, Edwards said: "We're aiming to put it over in a big way, to show those young people, up there how sincerely glad we are to have them as good citizens. And to do that we urgently need the cooperation of every civic and military organization in the city."

"This dedication is going to be unique, partly because it's the first time in the history of Newton that a new community will have been formally and fittingly welcomed into our civic family. It is creating so much interest that five or six thousand are expected to attend."

"The young residents of the park will be hosts. They are planning to show the visitors every part of the development. Each street will entertain the parents and relatives of the men for whom the streets were named."

The amount of wages paid Newton employees this year as compared with January of a year ago, likewise showed a decided increase. In January, 1949, the amount of payrolls here was $909,987 as compared with $817,055 reported in January this year, or $82,932 more this year than last.

According to the Newton Chamber of Commerce in its bulletin released this week, the average number of employees in Newton for January this year was 4,338 as compared with 4,082 in the same month last year, an increase of 256 or 6.3 percent.

The State employment average in January of this year showed a decrease of 9.3 percent.

College Students Of Newton Aid Red Cross Program

Few people realize that the students in the colleges of Newton have a part in the Red Cross program. Red Cross College activities includes an active group carrying on from Junior Red Cross to the college level.

Since college students will soon become adult members of the Community, Red Cross believes they are logical persons to be trained in community leadership. The College Activities program offers many opportunities for making better citizens of these young American college students. Let's glance briefly at some of them at work!

Students at Lasell Junior College are doing outstanding work with the Handicapped Children in Newton, who are unable to attend public school. Weekly visits are made to these children in which handwork, story-telling and games are carried on by the (Continued on Page 2)

Final Plans for Hospital Open House Being Completed

Final plans to observe "Open House" at Newton-Wellesley Hospital, Saturday, March 25, from 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m., and Sunday, March 26, from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. are being completed, according to Edward B. Gray, President of the Hospital. The hospital is ready to receive hundreds of visitors of all ages who will be able to observe the completed portions of the building addition into which it is planned to move patients within the very near future. These dates were set in order to allow the people of the communities opportunity to inspect the addition without disturbing patients since none are to be housed therein until after the observance of "Open House" day.

The building will not be fully equipped at this time, but model areas will be furnished and hospital personnel will be available to describe points of interest. Visitors are asked to use the new north entrance into the laboratory area, and will there be greeted and instructed concerning the tours planned for them. Points of interest to be shown will include the new orthopedic unit, pediatric unit, laboratory and Coffee Shop—each unit with the latest of facilities and design.

The new hospital addition is one of which the communities can be proud. Mr. Gray stated. Officials are looking forward to greeting the public March 25 and 26 when they "come and see" for themselves this latest facility being offered the citizens of Newton and Wellesley. The specific itinerary for the "Open House" is to be announced at a later date.

TO MARRIED PERSONS:

Will Half Your Estate be TAX FREE?

It depends to a large extent on how your will is drawn and how your life insurance is arranged.

A "Marital Deduction" may save your estate a substantial sum in taxes. But unless your property is distributed in a manner set forth under the provisions of the Federal Estate Tax Law your estate won't get this deduction.

Check your property arrangements with your lawyer. He can tell you whether they will entitle your estate to a "Marital Deduction."

Says State Has Lost Position Of Leadership in Education

Miss Doris Almy, public relations director of the Massachusetts Teachers Federation and a member of the board of the Massachusetts Congress of Parents-Teachers Associations, told members of the Frank F. Carr Parent-Teachers Association last week that Massachusetts has lost its position of leadership in education circles of the nation.

"The citadel of the public school is on a tottering base," she told the Newtonton group which met in the auditorium of the Carr School on Nevada street.

She charged that Massachusetts now ranks 43rd in its ability to pay for education and that certain of the smaller and poorer communities will suffer for generations because of this fact.

"It is time that you as parents and teachers join hands in the fight for education as a primary need of all the cities and towns of the state," Miss Almy declared.

In stressing the lack of funds available to schools, she pointed to the fact that more than 100 schools in Massachusetts have been condemned by fire officials as fire traps.

"And yet they are in daily use throughout the school year," the speaker asserted.

At least 50 schools in the state are without indoor toilet facilities, according to Miss Almy.

In calling for an increase in the close relationship of teachers and parents, Miss Almy said children require from adults the type of results which alert Parents-Teachers Associations can attain through concerted action.

She stated that Massachusetts is the only state in the nation where a teacher's certificate is not required.

"But the day soon will come when no teacher shall be hired to teach in our schools unless he or she has a bachelor's degree and at least 16 hours in education."

Following the business meeting and Miss Almy's talk, P.T.A. members were conducted through the newly furnished and redecorated teachers' room at the Carr School. The renovation of that room was one of the major projects this year of the group.

Refreshments were served to the members by committee headed by Mrs. Charles Barbo.

Chairman of the meeting was H. A. Beaudoin, president of the P.T.A. Mrs. Dudley Taw, chairman of the program committee, introduced the principal speaker.

remark of his critic that Democrats must be making these suggestions about revitalizing the Republican party, Mr. Moore commented that it hardly seemed worthy of notice.

"Upon reading those words the thought immediately flashed to mind 'methinks the lady doth protest too much.'

"A little research brought to light the following facts: Norman E. Moore is registered as a voter from 302 Highland avenue in West Newton. He voted in the primaries on September 14, 1948 at which time he requested and received a Republican ballot. The official record shows that until that date, less than two years ago, he had declared no party affiliation since first registering in Newton from 88 Harrington street on October 17, 1945. Going back a few years to 1942, we find that the gentleman who claims to be the spokesman for the revitalized Republican Party was registered from Nonantum road in Brighton as you guessed it—a Democrat!

"This poses a very interesting question, not from the standpoint of personalities but from the position of our Grand Old Party. Are these characters in the dark of the moon leap the fence, the next day to graze plaidly with the Republican flock, interested in revitalizing the Republican party, fostering the aims of the Democratic party, or merely seeking to feather their own nests?"

Gives Talk and Viewpoints On Abstract Art

The picture organization must have universal meaning, good drawing, right placement of objects, movement, and functioning color was the substance of Carl Nelson's talk at the meeting of the Newton Art Association Tuesday evening February 28, at Library Hall, Newtonville. Mr. Nelson also gave some interesting viewpoints on abstract art.

At the next meeting which will be held on Thursday evening, March 9, at the Bonnar Studio, 22 Bowers street, Newtonville, Miss. Polly Nordell, well-known painter and member of the Guild of Boston Artists and the Copley Society of Boston will be the guest artist at the discussion of paintings brought in by members. This should be a most interesting meeting.

Why Use Easter Seals?

Why help a fallen cripple to his feet? Why give a wheelchair to an invalid? Why help a child with cerebral palsy overcome a difficulty that a generation ago would have banished him to bedlam?

You wouldn't deny all this, would you?

The Bay State Society for Crippled and Handicapped, Inc., is your medium for extending this helping hand, 365 days every year—and a happy and useful medium it is. Beginning last Thursday and continuing through April 9, the Bay State Society conducts its annual Easter Seal campaign for a quota of $275,000.

It operates cerebral palsy treatment-training centers; it helps medical experts fight their way to a better understanding of epilepsy; it gives the tools leading to productive lives to the handicapped who would otherwise waste their years.

It does this work on a statewide basis through your contributions to the Seal campaign. When the cheerful tokens come to your house, you can help keep this great task rolling for another year—a year in which it is planned that services will be broadened and many hitherto unmet needs attended to.

So give, and give generously. Help the cripple to his feet, the invalid to happy productivity, the stricken child to the place in the sun he deserves.

Pop Concert Thoughts

The success of the Third Annual Pop Concert was the inevitable result of a wonderful demonstration of good will and cooperative community effort.

Groups joining forces to make the affair an outstanding one included the board of trustees, Mothers' Auxiliary, Staff, faculty and students of the All Newton Music School; the Newton School Committee, High School Staff, Newton Recreation Department, members of the Newton Symphony Orchestra and the general public.

Special credit should go to the parents, especially the mothers of Music School students, for all their work, interest and generous support.

The united efforts of a private agency—the All Newton Music School—and a public agency—the Newton Public School system—make for real democracy and should prove an inspiration to Newton for better community living.

The event, favored by good weather and a record crowd, was one of friendly socialability and neighborliness, which under the spell of a gay and splendid musical program suited to the taste of both young and old, will be talked about for many days to come.

Is It Too Much To Ask?

Each year at this time the American Red Cross asks you to assist in its campaign for funds. There is no need of enumerating the Red Cross services; there is no need of telling you how many lives have been saved by the Red Cross; nor of how many people the Red Cross has helped. You know all that, but perhaps you do not know how urgent is the need for funds.

An organization the size and magnitude of the Red Cross is so big as to be almost incredible. It is operated, of course, on an international scale with branches in sixty-seven countries of the World.

Newton's quota of $75,140 is a mere "drop in the bucket" compared with the National quota; but the sooner each and every drop is added, the sooner the "bucket" will be filled, so give to the Red Cross at least as much as you gave last year; give to the Red Cross for the sake of our veterans and servicemen; give for the sake of Newton's needy; give for your own sake.

It that too much for your Red Cross to ask?

Buell of Providence, Rhode Island, who now occupy the property.

Political Highlights

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., is having no easy time in his crusade to revise and reform our method of electing Presidents, and much of the opposition to his proposed amendment to the Constitution comes from within his own party.

Lodge succeeded in obtaining the Senate's approval on February 1 by a vote of 62 to 27 for his plan after a determined fight but now finds his measure stalled in the House rules committee where the prospects are it will remain for the present.

There are 11 members on the House rules committee, and they voted 7 to 4 to hold up the proposed bill which for all practical purposes would wipe out the electoral college and pro-rate a State's electors in proportion to the popular vote for the Presidential candidates.

Congressman Christian A. Herter, like Lodge one of the real liberal Republicans on Capitol Hill, voted to report the measure to the House. So did three Southern Democrats. Four Northern Democrats and three Northern Republicans, however, have stymied Lodge's efforts at least for the present.

Professional politicians in both parties take a rather dim view of the suggested electoral change, one of those who holds little enthusiasm for it being Lodge's old friend, Senator Robert A. Taft.

Taft and a number of other Northern Republicans have attempted to determine whether the Lodge amendment would help or hurt the G.O.P., and their conclusion is that it would be more likely to hurt than help it.

Their reasoning is that the Democrats always would pick up a substantial number of electoral votes in the populous Middle Western States which usually are found in the G.O.P. column but that the G.O.P. would not make corresponding gains in the South.

In other words, they maintain that the Democratic party would benefit from the exchange, and for that reason they're disposed to oppose the move.

The Southern Democrats are supporting the amendment on virtually the same line of reasoning. They feel that it would help the South to regain its old place in the Democratic councils and that such moments as that launched in 1948 by the Dixiecrats would assume greater significance from a Democratic standpoint because of the electoral votes that might be siphoned off.

Why the Northern Democrats are either cool or lukewarm to the idea isn't entirely clear except that there is a natural tendency to resist any change of this nature, and there is some belief that it might encourage the formation of splinter parties. Lodge himself contends that it would discourage splinter parties.

In the strange mixup of views toward the Lodge proposal, it has the support of President Truman, possibly because a shift of a very small number of votes in the farm States which he carried by scant pluralities in 1948 would have thrown the Presidential election into the House of Representatives.

It now remains to be seen whether the Lodge amendment will lie in the House rules committee. It seems doomed to stay there for the present.

Hand Signals Are Important When Driving Auto

—o—

"Hand signals are a means of self-preservation when you are driving an automobile, as well as a courtesy to the other fellow," Chief Philip Purcell of the Newton Police Department said in an appeal for better observance of the rule for driver hand signals.

This appeal is a part of a continuing program sponsored by the National Safety Council and the Massachusetts Safety Council to impress upon people the traffic safety rules they must follow, to encourage obedience to those rules, and to build public support for their enforcement.

Chief Purcell went on to offer the following rules for signalling either by hand or by flashing turn signals:

1. Give signals far enough in advance to allow the driver behind you to maintain a safe position — at least 100 feet.

2. Signals do not justify your making an unexpected or illegal maneuver. It is just as important to get into the proper lane well before you reach the corner.

3. Get both hands on the wheel before starting to turn.

4. Hand signals are not uniform throughout the country. A safe rule is to be prepared for anything when another driver holds out his hand.

Failure to signal is among the 10 most common driver violations in traffic accidents. The man behind can't read your mind — give him a signal.

Favors House Bills 430 and 431

—o—

Editor, Newton Graphic:

I should like through your columns to inform my constituents of my attitude toward House Bills 430 and 431, filed by the Friends of Framingham Reformatory. These bills would enable Dr. Van Waters to continue and improve the good work she has done to rehabilitate women prisoners according to modern penological methods.

I have heard Dr. Van Waters describe her work and her aims in her own words, and have had the privilege of discussing them with her. It is my considered opinion that she should be given all the help that she needs. These two bills will go far toward accomplishing that end.

When the Committee on Public Welfare heard these bills on March 7, I recorded in favor of them and urged the committee to report them favorably.

Plan Square Dance April 15

The Newton-Wellesley Junior Aid Association met in the drawing room of the Nurses' home in Newton Lower Falls, Wednesday evening, March 8. It was a festive evening, for the purpose of getting the members better acquainted. Card tables and chairs filled the room. A nor'easter blew outside, but in spite of the weather, most of the tables were filled. Dessert and coffee were served prior to a short business meeting, in which the by-laws were read and adopted, and the charter membership closed. However new members are always welcome.

Mrs. Kathryn Conant, chairman of the Square Dance committee, announced that plans were under way for the square dance scheduled for Saturday night, April 15. The dance is to be held at the Richard Knight Auditorium, Babson Institute, in Wellesley from 8-12. Refreshments will be served.

Miss Sally Clark, vice president, presided over the meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. Robert Warren, who was at home ill.

Miss Nancy Blanchard of Waban, chairman of the card party, with her capable assistants made the evening a great success. Prizes were awarded to the highest and lowest scorers in both bridge and canasta.

William J. Ferguson, 25, Electrician's mate second class, USNR, of 440 Newtonville Avenue, has reported for duty with Organized Submarine Division 1-9 of the U. S. Naval Reserve, Boston.

Alice in Wonderland Theme to Feature Spring Fair at Newtonville

Wednesday, March 29, spring will come officially to Newtonville when the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church holds its Spring Fair, featuring the Alice in Wonderland theme. Spring fairs in the Newtons are a bit unusual, a visit from Alice in Wonderland is a bit unusual, but the most unusual thing of all will be the striking articles offered for sale on the various tables. For many weeks the members of the society have been plying needle, brush and mixing spoon to bring forth new and exotic products which will be presented in a glorious setting of Alice's Wonderland, complete with the White Rabbit's House, the Garden, and the Caterpillar perched on the Mushroom. Mrs. Harold School as decorations chairman, assisted by Mrs. P. T. Livingston, Miss Irene Young, Mrs. Ralph McKee and Mrs. Arthur T. Gregorian, D.D., Archbishop of Boston will be responsible for transferring this veritable fairytale to Newtonville - 1950, and Mrs. Livingston's murals alone are worthy of a looksee.

The Mad Hatter will reverse his procedure and offer fabulous food, - home baked things, salads and casseroles, plus Easter candies and eggs—and Mrs. J. Bernard Everett, Mrs. P. T. Livingston and Mrs. George Kent and their group will serve as his hostesses. Under that Mushroom (and we hope the Caterpillar doesn't fall off!) will be found a perfect paradise for the younger generation; not only things for them but things for them to buy. Miss Irene Young, Mrs. Richard Forbes, Mrs. Joseph Heizer and Mrs. V. R. MacKay and their group have toys, dolls, doll clothes, toddlers' wear and baby outfits in abundance.

Hear Talk on Racket Busting

George Fingold of Concord, formerly Assistant District Attorney of Middlesex County, and, more recently, Assistant Attorney General in charge of prosecution and investigation of rackets and corruption in Massachusetts, spoke to the members of the Newton Rotary Club on "Racket Busting."

Mr. Fingold stated it is essential, now more than ever, that we abandon the role of innocent bystanders who disassociate ourselves from the responsibility for the whole complicated mechanism of police, judges, prosecuting attorneys, wardens, and high prison walls. He said we have no right as Americans to wash our hands of the duty by which society attempts to protect its members from criminals.

He further stated that the true duty of those who live in a Democracy must include constructive interest in the prevention of crime, the possible ways of dealing with criminals, and the point of view and the conduct of those appointed to administer the law. Crime and corruption is everybody's business.

Mr. Fingold said large cities are strangled by a gambling syndicate, protected by police and fed by immediate race track information. In the greater Boston area the syndicate extracts two million dollars a year while in the country as a whole twenty billion dollars is the annual "take."

Mrs. Clifford Waterhouse was the speaker and she displayed a large number of authentic designs obtained from early New England houses and told many interesting stories about them. Block prints and stencils, floral designs, scenes from the Bible, history and literature, stripes, diamonds, and medallions, Chinese, and Victorian gold followed each other according to the trend of the times. Reproductions were shown including a copy of the peacock paper in a room of the Governor Gore House, Waltham.

Parents Hear Talk on Books

The parents of the Pomroy House-Nursery School children met for their regular March meeting at the Pomroy House when they heard Miss Ann Golding, a member of the staff of the Newton Library, speak to them on the subject of books.

Miss Golding pictured the many advantages which the children of Newton enjoy in having a fine children's library branch and ten selected branch libraries with the very best selection of books chosen and sorted for them dealing with every conceivable interest of the young mind. Miss Golding cited the need of training the child early in life in the love and appreciation of books in order that he may develop into an earnest and learned reader later in years. A large number of selected books were on exhibition for the parents to thumb through. A spirited discussion followed the talk.

Mr. Charles Simons, chairman of the group, presided, while delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Michael Vinciguerra, Mrs. Charles Maguire, Mrs. James Cail and Mrs. Robert C. Lee.

Hear Talk on Forty Plus Club

William L. Clemens, president of the Forty Plus Club, was the speaker at the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club Wednesday.

He told of how the club is made up of former executives who are over 40 years of age and who through no fault of their own, are unemployed. These men, he stressed, are in the prime of life, have mature and experienced judgment and make excellent executives, but some firms today will not hire anyone over 35 years old. In establishing this rule, these firms are losing the services of valuable men.

Herbert Cotton became a member of the club at this meeting.

Perfect attendance pins were given to William E. Halliday, Jr. 1 year; and Charles Hildred, 3 years.

Thirty-nine gum ball machines, the proceeds from which go to the underprivileged children of Newton, have been installed in stores throughout the city. Seven more locations are yet to be found.

Cub Master, James Riggs, then made the following awards:

One Year Service Awards to: Mrs. Frederick Grady, Den Mother; Richard Reynolds, Teddy Clark, Donald Berg, Fred Grady and Robert Hill.

Two Year Service Awards to: Billy Foster and Richard Katz, Wolf Silver Arrows; Nathan Custer, Raymond Vanderwell, Billy Wallace, Bobby Keene and Frank Sharpe.

Bear Gold Arrows: Bobby Keane, Allyn Woodward and Ted Clark.

Bear Badge: Allyn Woodward, Dave Seeley, Tommy Riggs and Ted Clark.

Bear Silver Arrows: Ben Clarke and Ted Clark.

Lion Badge, Lion Gold Arrow, Lion Silver Arrow to Robert Hill.

Hostesses for the evening include: Mrs. Willard W. Rice, president of the Club; Mrs. Harry Troutwine, chairman of reception; Mrs. Otis E. Stephen, chairman of decorations; Mrs. James A. Downing, ticket chairman; Mrs. Everett Winslow, chairman of refreshments; Mrs. Walter S. Anderson, Mrs. Chester P. Baker, Mrs. Roger B. Brooks, Mrs. John R. Capron, Mrs. F. Earle Conn, Mrs. George H. Charles Pearson To Be Soloist At Hunnewell Club

Atomic energy pervaded the Hunnewell Club at the dining room the members assembled at "Los Alamos" and tested appetizers made of top-secret ingredients. The hearty supper was relished by those present, but afterwards the waiters felt like 37 cents. The remainder of the evening was devoted to bowling, bridge and canasta.

The committee in charge was composed of Dr. and Mrs. Harold L. Higgins, Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Hallett, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Leonard H. Abbot. Everyone felt the absence of Dr. Higgins, who was hospitalized in Lowell because of an automobile accident.

Members of the club anticipate a musical treat this Sunday afternoon. Charles Pearson, of the New England Conservatory of Music, will sing three groups of songs and Miss Hazel Hallett, concert pianist well known about Boston, will play several attractive numbers. Mrs. Herbert B. Dwight will be in charge of the tea following the concert, and Mrs. Elmer L. Ford and Mrs. Clarence C. Colby, wives of past presidents of the club, will preside as hostesses.

Know Your

City Government

Sealer of Weights and Measures

J. ELLIS BOWAN

Another in a series of feature articles presented by The Graphic as a public service to better acquaint the citizens of Newton with their government.

J. Ellis Bowan first came to work for the City of Newton in 1936 and had been in the service of the city ever since except for a leave of absence during which he served in the U. S. Coast Guard during World War II. During his employment with the city he attended evening law school and graduated cum laude. He is qualified for the practice of law and is a member of the Massachusetts Bar as well as the Federal Bar.

First, I would like to say that the matter of weights and measures is so important that the Constitution of the United States specifically delegates to Congress the authority to coin money, regulate the value thereof, and "fix the standard of weights and measures." George Washington, in his first message to Congress in 1790 stated that "uniformity in the currency and weights and measures of the United States is an object of great importance and will, I am persuaded, be duly attended to." It is no accident that these two powers were mentioned together, for their effect on your pocketbook, or on your business and every-day living is very closely related. The sealer, when going about his work is performing one of the most important functions of government.

Standards of weights and measures are not vague or meaningless symbols, but accurate standards that afford an equal degree of protection to all who buy or sell essentials of the luxuries of life. If these standards were to be taken suddenly from us, no one could imagine the extent of the confusion which would result from such action. Efficient inspection of weights and measures and supervision of the same are vitally important, not only to the purchasing public, but to the manufacturer and retail merchant as well. This work insures that the public receives full value for the money expended, and protects the retail merchant from the possibility of giving more of a commodity than he is paid for, due to faulty weighing or measuring devices, and this is the primary duty of your Sealer of Weights and Measures.

The sealer enforces the laws of weights and measures. He understands the principals upon which the device which he is called upon to test are operated. He must, of necessity, be somewhat of a lawyer and, in many cases, judge and jury as well. He is a law enforcement officer. The vast majority of our merchants are honest, and I seek, and appreciate their co-operation.

Q. What sort of equipment do you use in your work?

Well, first of all, in my office at City Hall, carefully protected from dust and dirt, in a large glass cabinet, are the standards of weights and measures. These consist of a large and a small balance together with weights ranging from 50 pounds down to 10 milligrams, and when you picture the weight of a milligram as being one-thousandths part of a cube of water about $\frac{1}{8}$ ths of an inch, square it's getting down pretty fine. Then I have a standard meter measure, a standard yard measure and various bushel measures both liquid and dry. These stay in my office and are tested periodically by the Office of the Director of Standards for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. In addition, I have a set of working standards that I carry about in my car for testing weights and measures in the field.

Q. How about that field work, what do you do when you go into a store?

Don't think stores are the only place we go, or that testing scales is our only function. In 1949, your sealer tested the following: 15 scales of a capacity over 10,000 pounds, and those were not in stores. They are coal weighing scales and such. One hundred and twenty-four scales of a capacity from 100 to 5,000 pounds were sealed, 44 of them requiring adjustment, and 12 were condemned as unfit. In smaller scales, such as those used by your grocer, 432 were sealed, 88 of them adjusted, and 146 condemned as unfit. Two hundred and ninety-eight weights were tested and sealed, many of these being those of your druggists.

All of our work provides for tolerances in excess or deficiency. But those are mighty small in the case of druggists' equipment.

Your sealer tested 178 gasoline pumps and condemned seven as inaccurate. Oil, grease and kerosene measuring devices, vehicle tank trucks, bulk oil storage meters, yard sticks, must all be accurate within allowable tolerances.

As I enter a store I try to notice several things at first glance. Are the scales in plain view or are they hidden? It is good practice to always go to the rear of the store first and notice the balance of each scale as I pass. By doing this I obtain a general opinion of the store. I start testing the scales at the rear of the store and work toward the front.

Not for the test itself. First, is the scale in balance? Regardless of whether it is or not, I test to see the weighing condition as it has been used by the merchant. I note the capacity of the scale and apply one-half and full capacity tests in the centre of the scale platter.

Then in the case of a cylinder scale, I remove the weights and test the first and third quarters of the scale. I then remove all weights on the platter and place a two-pound weight at various points on the platter for the shift test. Again I remove the weights and start from zero, or wherever the scale rests with no load, and add weights, one pound at a time, until I have passed the average weighing range of the merchant.

On all of the above tests, I have been watching for friction and other errors. Furthermore, I am always using my set of frictional weights. The sensitiveness of the scale can be readily determined by the use of the ounce and other small weights.

We must assume that the scale was originally accurate when it left the factory. Your sealer has been looking for defects which are caused by use and abuse, dirt and corrosion, trickery or tampering. If no greater error than the tolerance allowed for this type of scale, one-half ounce on capacity, is found, the scale is sealed.

This is done by placing on the customer's side of the scale, a seal with my name as sealer and the date of the test. The color of this seal is green for the even year and red for the odd year. An exception was last year when silver seals were used. This year, being even, it is green. This enables your sealer to tell at a glance whether or not the scale has been sealed during the year of inspection. You, too, as time goes on, will notice green seals appearing to replace the silver seals of last year. When you see a green seal on your grocer's scale, or your gasoline pump, this year, you will know that your sealer has been there, and that the scale or meter is accurate and to be trusted.

Q. Do you charge the merchant a fee for all this service?

Yes. The fees are prescribed by general laws. For instance, the fee for a scale over 10,000 pounds capacity is $5.00, for a scale under 100 pounds, such as your grocer probably has, is 50 cents. The druggists' weights are 10 cents apiece. Gasoline pumps $1.00 each, and so on.

Q. Is your department self supporting, that is, do the fees that you have told about pay the cost of operating the department?

No, only in part. Last year there was a net cost to the tax-payers of \$3,568.47, or less than 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ cents per capita, based on population, for the year. I don't know of any other circumstance where so many people get so much protection for so little cost.

Q. What do you mean by trial weighing of commodities for example?

As the terminology implies, your sealer is constantly going about doing what you might call "spot checking." At any time I may appear in a store unannounced and weigh merchandise that has been prepackaged in anticipation of sale. Of course, I am interested in the net weight of the commodity. I may weigh bread, or cranberries, or nuts, or butter, or any other commodity.

I may stop a coal truck on the highway and demand to see the certificate of weight accompanying the load. When I do this I order the truck to the most convenient coal scales and weigh same for gross weight, then allow the load to be delivered, the empty truck to return for weighing again. The certificate accompanying that load should agree with my trial weighing. I may stop a load of road building material in the same way and for the same purpose.

Perhaps tomorrow I will drop in on your corner grocer and examine his packaged merchandise at random to see that it is properly marked with the net weight. If he is exposing for sale coal or kindling wood I will examine the containers to see that they are in conformity with law and contain the proper contents.

Q. You mention that you are a law enforcement officer. Do you have powers similar to those of a police officer to carry out your enforcement if the vendor refuses or fails to comply with the law?

Oh yes, the sealer is vested with ample authority under the statutes to carry out the duties of office, and in some respects he has authority exceeding that of a police officer.

Q. What would be an instance where you have more authority than a police officer?

To cite one instance, general laws confer the authority upon your sealer, in certain circumstances, to seize property without warrant. And, of course, the sealer is given quite a field under which he may prosecute an offender.

Q. Have you been doing this work since you first came to work for the city, some 13 years ago?

No, until recently I have been in the city clerk's office. My predecessor as sealer was Mr. Andrew Prior who passed away in October. The Honorable Theodore R. Lockwood, our Mayor, with the approval of the Department of Civil Service and Registration, thereupon appointed me acting sealer of weights and measures.

Mr. Prior was known as "Andy" to hundreds of people throughout our city and was truly a friend of them all. Always modest, and of unquestioned integrity, he loyally and ably protected the interests of the citizens of Newton, as well as the interests of the storekeepers, in his enforcement of the laws relating to weights and measures. Unselfish and faithful, his service merits the appreciation of our citizenry. He had been sealer of weights and measures since 1909, for 40 years. I am constantly conscious of his good influence, both professionally and as a personality, as I go about the city.

Q. That certainly is an enviable record, isn't it?

Well, Mr. Prior started much younger than I, so I'm sure I won't be in office quite that long, but I say that his influence has left its mark on me, and my policy will be strict enforcement of the law, but in the tradition established by Mr. Prior of absolute fairness, without favoritism, and in a friendly manner with all who co-operate in such spirit. "The primary duty of your sealer is to see that equity prevails," or in other words, it is the primary duty of your sealer to see that "fairness in dealings prevails" under our existing law.

I'm glad of the opportunity to tell my story. In this day and age of various shifting standards, it may be reassuring to some to know that the standards with which this department is concerned, the standards of weights and measures, do not, and cannot change. A pound is a pound, it equals 7,000 grains and that's all there is to it. It doesn't vary when another party comes into power. There's no argument or discussion about it, it's right within prescribed tolerances, or it's wrong.

He has been associated for a number of years with the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, and served as its president from 1946 to 1949. Fourth Easter Bunny Parade Draws Over 100,000 Youngsters and Adults

The Original Easter Bunny's fourth annual visit to the Grover Cronin store was witnessed by an estimated 100,000 youngsters and adults who lined the two-mile parade route which ended in the heart of the Waltham shopping district.

The bunny arrived by helicopter and was greeted by city, state and store officials. The festive occasion was intensified by the appearance of large inflated rubber figures such as ducks, pigs, horse and rider, dragon, clown in a box, and a polka-dotted two-headed snake, which bobbed and weaved through the spectator-crowded streets. Sitting atop the front of a long, four-car rubber train, the Original Easter Bunny blew fuzzy kisses and waved a carrot corsage to the wide-eyed children.

Martial airs resounded as bands, fifes, bugle and drum corps contributed their musical offerings. Clown-suited Boys' Club members balanced huge, grotesque figures on their shoulders, and other fairytale characters were wheeled along.

The photo contest sponsored by the Grover Cronin store brought out cameras ranging from the box vintage to intricate flash press varieties of super-speed action.

It was the largest Easter Bunny parade presented by the department store. The Original Easter Bunny will be in the Grover Cronin "Bunnyland" every day until Easter to greet and delight the youngsters who throng there for the Bunny's annual visit.

Dr. Roderick Scott, recent Professor of Philosophy of Fudan Christian University, Foochow, China, was the featured speaker. Dr. Scott said: "The Chinese Communists after 28 years have established their government. They owe their success to the weakness of the former government. The decline in popular support for the Nationalist Party is due to the failure of the victory in the war to bring peace and prosperity, to their widespread corruption, and to their decision to fight a civil war, which has greatly increased the misery of all classes.

"But can the Communists hold their gains? No, or not without changing their program drastically. Few Chinese are or will become Communists. The Chinese people can not be pushed around. Russia has long been China's enemy. Few Chinese every saw a Russian. There are signs that the program is slowing down, that the job of governing China is a little too big for these inexperienced politicians."

There were 125 people in attendance at the dinner. Dr. M. Russell Boynton, pastor of the First Church in Newton (Congregational), gave the invocation.

Vote Approval to Take Land for Business Block

At its meeting Monday night the Board of Aldermen approved special legislation to permit the city to take land in the Oak Hill Veterans' Housing project for business purposes.

The bill was introduced by Senator Richard H. Lee to clear the way for construction of a business block in Oak Hill Park. The vote of the Aldermen was unanimous.

Gave 30% More to Polio Fund This Year Than Last

Newton residents gave thirty percent more to the March of Dimes this year than they did in 1948, Chairman Frank J. Murphy announced this week. Newton led all other Middlesex county cities and towns with contributions totaling more than $13,000, he revealed.

In extending his thanks to Newton residents for their generosity, Mr. Murphy paid special tribute to the campaign workers, many of them parents of polio victims, for their outstanding efforts on behalf of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. He also cited The Graphic and radio station WCRB for publicity given the drive which, he said, "contributed immeasurably to its success."

The polio epidemic last summer was the worst in both Newton's and the nation's history. By drive time in January, aid to the polio stricken had left local and national foundation treasuries in an extreme dangerous condition.

Itinerant Roofers Are Here Again

With the coming of Spring will also come the itinerant roofer who calls at the home or calls over the phone and informs you that there are a few shingles off your roof or the gutter is leaking; he then states he is working in the neighborhood and can do the repairs for a very nominal sum. Don't be misled; not only will they not do a workmanlike job, but the price will be far more than a competent roofer will charge.

Don't be fooled. When you receive a call, call the Newton Chamber of Commerce. They will give you the facts. There are excellent roofing companies in Newton, who employ Newton labor, pay taxes and are good citizens. "Before You Investigate."

King Beats A Nine Any Day, So Waban Man Gets A House

Joseph J. Mercer of 84 Agawam road, Waban, owns a house today by virtue of a cut of cards. Mercer and Mrs. J. Joseph Hughes of 55 Unity Avenue, Belmont, each bid $3150 for a five room house on Washington street, Newton Lower Falls, which must be moved to make room for new Route 128.

The time limit for removal of the house from its present location to another site is April 15. A new foundation will have to be built at the new site, so a quick decision had to be made as to ownership.

A decision was made to cut a pack of cards to see who would get the house. Mercer and Mrs. Hughes met, Tuesday—she cut a nine but Mercer came up with a King. Sale!

not kept pace with the progress of the State Retirement System. They cited such provisions as a board of appeal and examination by three doctors when retiring for disability. Also the pension benefits are larger under the state system, according to the employees. The petition was signed by nearly five hundred employees of the Police, Fire, Street and Water departments, school custodians, school secretaries and cafeteria workers. The petition has been forwarded to the Board of Aldermen by Mayor Lockwood and will be referred to the Finance and Claims and Rules Committees of the Board for consideration.

Should the proposal be adopted the city will be relieved of the requirement of appropriating funds annually to match the contributions of the employees.

The number of signatures on the petition represent more than half of the 909 members of the City Retirement System.

Five Girls Injured, Two Seriously When Auto Goes Out of Control

Junior Chamber Discuss Plans

The non-political aspect of the organization was stressed by Carroll O'Neill at a meeting of the Newton Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Y.M.C.A. Tuesday night. O'Neill, a member of the Brookline Junior Chamber, has recently moved to Newton.

The girls were injured when their car went out of control and struck a tree at Park and Franklin streets. Two of the five girls were on the danger list at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital but all five were reported as showing improvement. Most critically injured in the crash was Mary Crotty, 16, of 52 Foster street, Belmont, whose name is on the danger list with a possible fracture of the skull and Clara DeMilia, 15, of 3 Emerson road, Belmont, suffering from injuries to her head and hip.

The girls were injured when their car operated by Barbara Rice, 16, of 71 Douglas street, Belmont, went out of control, jumped the sidewalk, broke through a hedge and struck a tree at 237 Franklin street, Newton. Miss Rice, who suffered an injury to her left leg and her four companions, were removed to the hospital by police. The other passengers in the car were Margaret Nolan, 16, of 53 Winslow road, Belmont, who suffered a head injury, and Joan Ryan, 16, of 25 Horne road, Belmont, who suffered a shoulder injury.

According to a report to the police, Miss Rice was making a turn from Park street, when she lost control of the auto. Preliminary Plans Made For Annual Meeting of Community Council

The Governing Board of the Newton Community Council in its regular monthly meeting last Thursday discussed plans for several activities of city-wide interest.

Charles O. Richter, chairman of the Governing Board, and Mrs. Eugenia T. Copeland, Executive Secretary, announced preliminary plans for the annual meeting of the Newton Community Council scheduled for April 27.

Mrs. Meyer Armet reported on details of the community-wide heart screening program. This program has been planned by physicians of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital in cooperation with the Newton Health Department, with the assistance of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, and the United States Public Health Service. The progress report indicated that the various health services are pleased with the results of the initial screenings conducted among the personnel of City Hall and the Newton Public Schools. At the annual meeting of the Council in April delegates from all community agencies will receive information and instructions concerning the screening to be conducted in all villages of the city throughout the coming year.

In presenting the annual budget report Mrs. George H. Larsen made reference to the annual publication of the Newton directories, which are unique and

Dr. E. L. Merritt Is Rotary Club Speaker Here

Dr. Edward L. Merritt, past District Governor of Rotary, was the speaker at the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club, Monday. He spoke on the "Duties of the Individual Rotarian."

Dr. Merritt stated that we are facing a crisis, we are on the downward trend toward Socialism, away from the free enterprise system. Since 1913, when the income tax law became effective, taxes have grown to a point where they are 27% of the national income. In 1832 the government promised it would act as referee, which turned out to be a partner in American business. President Roosevelt put labor in the federal government, paying high salaries to all federal employees, and they have taught people to lean on the government by socialistic measures. Dr. Merritt recommended strongly that people stand on their own feet as did the pioneers of our country instead of depending on the government to set regulations.

Socialism is dragging Great Britain down the drain. Socialized medicine would be the end of freedom as that would start a string of taking over other vital professions and industries, Dr. Merritt contended.

He stated that the government has spent more money since World War II than was spent by the United States government since the time of Washington, up to the past war.

He recommended that every Rotarian talk to all types of people as to the true conditions and what it will lead to if continued.

CAN DO Let's Fix Up the Basement!

One of the dangerous things about basements is that when you stroll down there for a moment you're as likely as not to find something about it that needs overhauling, patching or repairing.

How about that big crack in the wall that you vow to fix or have fixed every time it rains and the leakage makes a mess out of your floor?

Why not fix it now . . . here's how:

Using a hammer and a cold chisel, first widen the crack where the leak occurs, making the sides of your groove as straight as possible, at the same time keeping the sides rough enough to retain the "plug." As you chisel out this groove along the crack, be sure to get it at least one inch deep, preferably a little more.

Next you brush out all loose particles from the groove you have made and then wet the inside of the crack with water just before you begin the actual patching operation.

The basic patching compound should be a stiff mortar mixture of one part portland cement and three parts of clean, coarse building sand, with enough water to produce a stiffish, workable consistency. Now pack the mixture well into the crack and keep the patch damp by applying water for several days.

If you wish, and many home repairmen do, instead of preparing your own patching mixture you can get a ready prepared patching mortar, on sale at your hardware store.

Another problem that is often found in the basement is what to do with that unsightly coal bin after the oil burner has been installed, or when it has passed out of use for any other reason.

Well, you can convert it to a fruit cellar or designate it as some other kind of storage area if you can find some useful purpose for it instead of tearing it down. The business here is how to get it cleaned up to the point where it is usable.

The difficulty is the floor, into which oils from the coal penetrate and produce a stain that is difficult to remove. If you're in the mood for work, try this:

Mix a strong, hot solution of washing soda or trisodium phosphate (soapsuds cleaning powder), using about a cupful to a gallon of water. Scrub well with a stiff fiber brush and follow through by rinsing with clear water. This should take off enough of the surface coal dust and oil to enable you to

Blackened Bulbs Give Poor Light

Although the average life expectancy of a 60-watt bulb (burned at labeled voltage and under normal conditions) is somewhere around a thousand hours you'll find it wise economy to replace bulbs when they've started to blacken.

A collection of tungsten particles inside the bulb causes the blackening and, while there's still life in these bulbs they should be used in less critical seeing areas.

'Always use fresh bulbs in reading lamps.'

Today, in the United States Navy, midshipmen are students of the United States Naval Academy. According to The World Book Encyclopedia, the term "midshipman" was first used during the 1800's when junior officers in the British Navy were stationed amidship to relay orders.

Students Leave For Frederick Saturday, April 15

By JUDY BERRY

The Newton High School Workshop in Leadership and Community Life held its first social gathering, a tea for the pupils and parents, last Thursday evening. This was for parents to become better acquainted with each other and to learn more about the purpose of the exchange group.

A short entertainment was given by some of the pupils, after which Mr. Floyd Rinker, head of the English Department, talked on many phases of the trip. He explained that the idea of exchanging pupils of different schools and communities would improve relations from State to State and might some day spread over the borders to other countries.

The newest development in the campaign for raising money is the rummage sale to be held April 1, at the Newtonville Women's Club. All the Newtons are being canvassed for articles of clothing and furniture. Mrs. Henry Whitmore is general chairman.

Enthusiasm mounts as the date of departure draws near. The group leaves from Back Bay Station, April 15. The Frederick group has also set its date and will start north on May 5.

A letter from the Red Cross in Frederick has given a sketch of the itinerary planned for the stay. Besides studying in the school classes, Washington, Annapolis, historical places in the town, parties, and even a splash party in the Hood College pool help to make up the much-looked-forward-to trip. Although the Newton plans are not yet complete, they will include such trips as Lexington and Concord, Gloucester, sights of Boston and Cambridge, and Sudbury.

The boys and girls, under the direction of Miss Edith Rideout and Mr. Larry Anderson, are now attempting to complete their special topics on the study of Frederick and Boston so that they may be given before the trip.

Oscar G. Wheeler Is Honor Guest

Oscar G. Wheeler, 44 Hereward road, Newton, was one of the honor guests Saturday at a dinner tendered by Captain George C. Whittlesey, U.S.C.G., in honor of Captain Chester A. Anderson, U.S.C.G., Washington, D.C., Chief Director of Auxiliary.

The dinner was the highlight of the Director's Conference, where Auxiliary's 1950 program for safety on the water was discussed.

Mr. Wheeler, who is Commander of the Boston unit of the United States Power Squadron was welcomed in a speech by Captain Whittlesey, wherein the captain expressed his hopes for closer relationships between Coast Guard Auxiliary and the Power Squadrons.

Cadet Ernest E. Layau, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Layau, of 24 Daniel street, Newton Center, has been appointed to the vestry of the Chapel of St. Cornelius at the Valley Forge Military Academy. One of 17 new members, Cadet Layau will assist the chaplain in general supervision of the cadet chapel.

portions of the hospital addition which are open for inspection. Diagrammatic sketches will be included in the leaflet which will show the use to be given to the various areas and will include notations of the most important factors to be seen on each floor. All facilities, equipment and areas will be tagged with clarifying information. Guides will be posted at various positions to describe the facilities and to answer any questions. Newton-Wellesley Hospital Aid Association members and members of the hospital's supervisory and administrative groups will be on hand to assist in explaining the interior of the building will appear after installation of new furnishings.

The new addition, except the three top floors, will be open for inspection on the above dates. On the third floor, or orthopedic unit, there will be pointed out such items of interest as the signal system for doctors and nurses, the inter-communicating system between nurse and patient, laundry chute facilities, kitchen and typical ward accommodations. The second floor, or pediatric unit, will find guides explaining the isolation rooms and techniques, playroom, humidifying room, nursing stations, continued, utility and treatment rooms. This unit is said to be one of the most modern and includes glass partitions where by nurses may observe the children under all conditions from the nursing station or corridor.

Miss Morse Enrolls As Attendant Nurse

A Newton woman, Miss Priscilla A. Morse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Morse of 20 Old Farm Road this week enrolled in the 208th class of the Household Nursing Association School of Attendant Nursing in Boston.

Miss Morse will spend her first six weeks at the Association's 222 Newbury Street headquarters where she will be taught elementary anatomy and physiology as well as nutrition and the fundamentals of home economics.

Miss Morse will then be transferred to one of four Massachusetts hospitals affiliated with the school for a year's further training. Her time at the hospital will be divided between classroom instruction and the invaluable experience of bedside nursing. As a graduate attendant nurse her services will be greatly in demand by hospitals, Visiting Nurse Associations, and in private homes, and she will be eligible for license in Massachusetts PTA.

Free Speech Yes, But...

The most fateful question facing the world of today can be stated in five words: "Is war with Russia inevitable?" Probably millions of words have been used in trying to answer it.

But one thing we do know and that is that America must stand strong and ready, at least until there is visible proof that all threats have passed.

If there is one thing that irks us it is those individuals who, living in this country, enjoying its blessings and its fruits, who are doing their utmost to bring about chaos here and then when called before the bar of justice, "stand on their constitutional rights" and refuse to answer.

We believe in free speech, first, last and always but free speech to us does not mean that individuals have the right to work and talk in a subversive manner, solely for the purpose of undermining the very structure of our government. This is making mockery of our laws and our principles and just so long as these individuals are allowed to saunter about as "free men," just so long will the cold war and its disturbing influence exist.

We have little sympathy with the Communists who reside in this country, albeit that they are presumed to be American citizens with Communistic beliefs. This country has flourished and prospered under the democratic system of government. All we have and possess, individually and collectively, is because of it.

Some individuals may believe in Communism. To those that do, we urge them, by all means, to take up their abode in nations which are ruled under the Communistic banner.

They're not happy here under our system of government and if there is anything we dislike to see is unhappy people. So by all means, let them go where they'll be happy. Then everyone will be happy.

In 1890, when few machines were at work in our country, 18 million persons were gainfully employed—29% of the population. Today more than 40 percent of our population have better jobs, higher real wages and shorter hours. Machines have created jobs, as well as wealth and leisure, for employees.

Cheer up, you'll be hearing "Batter Up" about three more weeks.

Snow drops are in bloom at the corner of Church and Eldridge street. As Miss Wilkes, who informed us of the fact said: "Aren't they brave little things to come out in weather like this."

Young wife: "What is this ticket, darling? Hubby: Only a pawn ticket. Young Wife: Why didn't you get two, then we could both go?"

Town meetings are now in vogue. And what better demonstration of democracy can you find?

We just came to the conclusion that we might as well order all the pamphlets and stuff put out by the Government. Doggone it, don't we pay for it anyway?

You can't say the "Welfare Staters" haven't got their feet on the ground because they have—in quicksand up to their knees.

Just a few warm days now and watch the ambitious gardeners get out their tools and go to work.

Demolition of the Bacon Building gives the corner a rather unfamiliar look. It's like everything else, we never miss anything until it's gone.

The recent Flower Show in Boston was beautiful and Newtonites aided no small bit with the fine displays they entered.

Be sure when calling The Graphic to dial the new numbers: LASell 7-1402 or 1403.

Political HighlightsSafety Activities To Be Evaluated

Evidently it came as a shock to some people the other day to discover that when they call upon the M.T.A. to build subways and tunnels they also must expect to foot the bill for them.

Even some of our State officials on Beacon Hill were a bit startled when the M.T.A. trustees pointed out in their annual report that passengers of their system can brace themselves for another fare rise when the road has to start paying for the subways and tunnels now either planned or in process of construction.

Governor Dever announced that there won't be a third increase in fares while he is in office. Maybe there won't, but there still isn't any painless way of paying for a $100,000,000 tunnel, and it's time that our State law-makers realized it.

If Mr. Dever continues as Governor, he either will have to postpone plans for building the tunnels and subways, boost the fares or find some other method of paying for the projects. There just isn't any other alternative.

If all the proposals now pending before the Legislature for expanding the M.T.A. rapid transit system were adopted and carried out, the officials of the road probably would have to boost their fares close to a quarter to keep out of the red.

This writer would be among the last to start any tribute or eulogy of the M.T.A. trustees. But the fact is that if they are ordered by the Legislature to build a tunnel or a subway, they have to go ahead and build it, and as the law now stands they are supposed to pay for it from fares.

The legislator who files a bill to have the rapid transit system extended into his community goes back to his constituents and tells them: "I'm fighting to have the rapid transit run into our district so that you'll get better service. It's a tough, uphill battle, but I'll never quit."

He very rarely adds: "It will cost $10,000,000 if I succeed, and, of course, you'll have to pay your share of the expense." That would strip much of the glory and glamour from the idea. The implication almost always is that the money will be borrowed and that it will be paid back by some body in the dim, distant future.

One of the present-day principles of politics, it seems, is to build things with borrowed money, take plenty of bows for the monuments you bestow upon the public and leave the bills for someone else to pay.

Right now the M.T.A. is building a rapid transit extension into East Dedham. Then it is supposed to build a new tunnel to replace the existing overhead line between Forest Hills and Sullivan Square. That will cost a fortune. It's difficult to find out just what the expense will be, but it will probably run over $100,000,000, and it may go far over it.

Also, they're supposed to widen and extend the Park street subway in the interest of increased efficiency. Also pending before the Legislature are suggestions for extending the rapid transit into Revere, Chelsea, through Cambridge to Arlington, and to tap other communities as well.

Still another legislator has a measure pending to shorten the period during which M.T.A. employees would work their eight hours. There may be some bills on Beacon Hill to cut down the cost of running the M.T.A., but if there are we haven't been able to find even one of them.

Maybe, the improvements proposed for the M.T.A. are worthwhile and are worth the money they will cost. But the riders and passengers ought to realize that each of them will cost something and must be paid for either from higher fares or a tax levy. They just aren't getting anything for nothing.

They should also recognize that their own elected representatives in some instances are sponsoring bills which, if adopted, would pile additional expense upon the M.T.A. This is as good a time as any for a little fact-finding, particularly with some elections scheduled for next autumn.

Considerable optimism is being expressed over the fact that the M.T.A. in February showed a profit of $11,290. That is quite an achievement since the road lost $907,745 in February of last year.

But that by no means is conclusive evidence that the system is now on a self-supporting basis for a 12-month period.

If the M.T.A. shows a profit of only $1,290 for February under the new fare schedule, you may be quite certain that it will show a loss next July and August for February usually is a fairly heavy month for passenger travel on the road, and the number of cash customers using the M.T.A. ordinarily begins to dwindle with the good weather of spring.

It would be wise to withhold judgment as to the financial condition of the road until figures for a much longer period are available.

Each day passed, brings the November election closer.

B.C. Club Downs Burke's 63-54 in Semi-Finals

Finalists for the Newton Basketball League American Division were decided last Monday evening when the Boston College Club posted its second straight win over their semi-final foe, Burke's, 63-54, at the Bigelow Junior High Gym. High man for B. C. was Mike Roarke with 18 points, followed by other double-digit marksmen for the evening, Artie Donovan with 16, and Ronald Hickey, who hit for 15. The only bright spot in the Burke aggregation was Bill O'Brien, a member of the Curry College basketball team, who chipped in for 18 points, while his mates were held to the single digit column.

Burke had the edge at the end of the first quarter, 13-12, but lost their advantage when the Eagles broke a 22-22 deadlock late in the second period to stay out in front for the remainder of the tilt.

In the second quarter the Burke's committed costly fouls that the B.C. Club converted which helped them take a 30-22 bulge at the half.

The third chapter saw the Burke's come to life with a 16 point barrage and edge up to within three points, 43-40, of their rival, and later in the final round close up the gap to 50-49, with only five minutes left.

But the Eagles put together a final attack to down the stubborn Druggists in the last few minutes, netting seven straight points to hang a 63-54 defeat on the Burke's and elimination from the league playoffs.

Gives Rules for Youthful Bicycle Riders to Follow

"Look, Willy! No hands!" Chief Philip Purcell of the Newton Police Department today classified 10 year old Junior and his no hands bicycle stunt as a public traffic enemy ranking in menace-value to the jay-walker and the runner-from-parked-cars.

"Too often Junior is the show-off, irresponsible type who undoubtedly is an excellent rider when he wants to be," said Chief Purcell. "But instead of riding safely as well as skillfully, he weaves in and out of traffic, refuses to heed signs and signals, hitches rides, and considers himself quite a cut-up."

National Safety Council figures, the Chief said, show that about 325 to 350 children are killed each year in accidents involving bicycles. Some of these, of course, are due to carelessness and irresponsibility on the part of the motorist. But far too many are the bicyclist's own fault.

"Knowing how to ride, and ride well," he said, "isn't enough. About one out of seven traffic deaths and injuries of children between five and 15 occurs when these boys and girls are on bicycles. We can only guess how many of these were brought about because the rider presumed that the laws and courtesies governing the use of the automobiles do not apply in the case of bicycles."

To reduce bicycle-car accidents, the Chief said, the following rules must be closely observed:

1. Keep bicycles to the far right of the street and ride with traffic.
2. Ride in a straight line without weaving or stunting.
3. Ride single file.
4. Do not carry passengers on bicycles.
5. Obey all traffic laws, signs and signals that are applicable to cars.
6. Do not hitch rides on cars, trucks, street cars, or other moving vehicles.
7. Unless essential, do not

Division of Counseling Services, Newton Public Schools

DR. EDWARD LANDY, Director

Another in a series of feature articles presented by The Graphic as a public service to better acquaint the citizens of Newton with their government.

Dr. Edward Landy started as a science teacher in 1931 in the Quincy Schools. After a few years, he became counselor and then Head Counselor at the North Quincy High School. Dr. Landy then became principal of the Abington, Mass., High School in 1937. During 1939-40 he conducted the Occupational Adjustment Study for the National Association of Secondary School Principals which, incidentally, was financed by a Rockefeller grant. In 1941 Dr. Landy moved on to Montclair, New Jersey, as Director of Guidance. During World War II he served as Operations Analyst with the Army Air Forces, returning to Montclair in 1946. He obtained his Doctorate at Harvard University in 1942, majoring in the field of guidance. He is the author of several books in this field and has published articles and reviews in several professional journals. He is a member of the American Psychological Association and a Professional Member of the National Vocational Guidance Association.

Q. Director of the Division of Counseling Services sounds like an interesting job. Just what are some of your duties and responsibilities?

Perhaps first I had better explain just what our Division is charged with. We have a two-fold responsibility. The first is to exercise leadership for the guidance program throughout the public schools of Newton. The actual program itself is, of course, carried on in the schools by teachers, counselors, and principals. Our guidance program helps to meet certain special needs of all pupils as individuals. This program would require several hours of explanation but the educational and vocational counseling which helps pupils in the junior and senior high schools to make decisions regarding educational and vocational planning is one important example.

Q. You mentioned a second responsibility. What is it?

The second responsibility is, in a sense, a corrective one as contrasted with the preventative views of the guidance program. It is to provide services of various kinds for individual pupils who, for one reason or another, may not be adjusting well to school life or who start off with certain handicaps which makes individual attention of some kind imperative for them. For example, with the aid of teacher-technicians in the school, Miss Macnutt, our hearing specialist in the Division of Counseling Services, conducts city-wide tests of hearing in grades 3-9. 6,297 pupils were tested in 1948-49 by means of group tests and we found 130 pupils with 15% loss of hearing in one or both ears. Incidentally there has been a steady decline to pupils with hearing impairment since the use of sulphur and penicillin. Miss Macnutt helps hard-of-hearing pupils with their hearing aids or lip-reading instruction or both. Our two speech counselors, Miss Kennedy and Mr. Wilson, survey the kindergarten-Grade 9 pupils for any speech defects—again with the cooperation of the teachers and principals. Our survey this fall showed 441 children with serious speech defects of one kind or another as stuttering, articulatory defects, etc. Miss Kennedy and Mr. Wilson of our Division provide these pupils with special speech therapy and also help teachers to work with other less serious cases. Our hearing and speech people cooperate to provide special auditory (or hearing) training for both speech and hearing cases.

Q. Hearing and Speech certainly play an important part in school life. Are there other handicaps your Division is concerned about?

Yes! Many more. For example, Miss Maynard, our Supervisor of Special Education, is in my Division also. She is responsible for keeping records on all physically handicapped youngsters as rheumatic hearts, spastics, etc. She keeps the teachers and principals informed of who these children are and follows them along through school trying to make sure that they receive all the necessary individual attention possible. She is also responsible for supervising instruction for our so-called "Home-bound" children who cannot come to school because of certain physical handicaps or illness. We had 254 handicapped children last year needing special consideration and 30 pupils received instruction at home. She is responsible also for the school work carried on at the New England Peabody Home for Crippled Children. Miss Maynard is consultant, also, for the work done in our helping classes throughout the city, of which there are seven. These are special classes for helping pupils who are academically falling behind for one reason or another. The children in these classes may be naturally slow learners or emotionally upset children who need special handling.

Q. What about children who have difficulty with reading? Isn't that pretty important?

Very much so. Of course we depend upon the regular classroom teacher to carry this load almost entirely, because the teaching of reading is a specialty of each classroom teacher in the elementary schools. However, we do have a specialist in reading, Miss Torrant, who works with very difficult reading problems when these children are referred to my office for special help. Reading difficulties may stem from a whole host of complex reasons and so children with reading difficulties may be given other special help as well, such as our psychological counselors can provide, which we call psychotherapy.

Q. That sounds like a five-dollar word, psychotherapy. What do you mean by that?

We find some children who are not adjusting well in school, either socially or academically, and the major problem seems to rest with the emotional maladjustment of the child. When the school and parents agree, the child is referred to our office for help.

in this area. We are fortunate to have Dr. Warren Vaughn, as our visiting psychiatrist who helps us with our work in this field. He works with all of our staff, but in particular, he helps our two psychological counselors, Miss Denault, and Mrs. Nakai, who are trained psychologists and who are mainly responsible for the psychotherapy work with children. We may in turn refer parents to clinics, private psychiatrists, the local Family Service Bureau, hospitals, etc., for further help. Our two psychologists, Miss Denault and Mrs. Nakai, also carry the main burden of giving individual, clinical psychological tests of ability and personality. These are used chiefly for diagnostic purposes when we want to find out whether a child is doing as well as we might reasonably expect him to do or to try to find out what might be troubling him and preventing his doing as well as he could. Oh yes, and I shouldn't forget to mention that Mr. Angino, the Supervisor of Attendance, is in our Division also. This means of course that it makes it easier for us to try to treat our attendance problems on a preventative, corrective basis rather than a punitive one.

Q. I suppose you are kept pretty busy managing these adjustment services?

Yes. And in addition, of course, I have the responsibility for exercising leadership in the over-all guidance program in the schools of which I spoke before. In my spare time, I try to work with a few cases myself, run several faculty workshops where we study problems of child growth and development, and act as consultant to several parent workshops in the same area. I am particularly interested in the faculty and parent workshops because I believe very strongly in early detection and prevention. All of our workers on my staff feel the same way and we are always trying to reduce through preventive methods, the case load that comes to our office.

Q. Could we come back to the guidance. You said something about being responsible for exercising leadership for it and about it being preventative rather than corrective. What do you mean by preventative rather than corrective?

Well, for example, a 9th grade pupil must make some pretty important choices of subjects when he moves on into grade X. He must decide whether he wants to be in a college, industrial arts, commercial, or general curriculum. He must decide upon electives within these curriculums. His decision ought to be in harmony with his own interests and abilities and ought to take into account family attitudes and finances. We do not believe in having 9th grade pupils select a career to aim for, but we do believe that they should understand that entering a particular curriculum in the high school does have certain implications for post-high school education or work. Unwise choices may result in later discouragement and failure. We do not try to tell a pupil and his family what to choose but our counselors in the junior and senior high schools try to help the pupil arrive at the best possible decision on his own. The same is true of course about problems of entering the world of work or going on with further schooling after leaving high school. The guidance program at all levels emphasizes looking at the pupil as an individual and meeting his special needs. Of course, to some extent, this is synonymous with good teaching anyway, but the guidance program brings an extra emphasis to this looking at a pupil as an individual and special tools and techniques for so doing.

Q. What might some of these special tools and techniques be?

The keeping of comprehensive cumulative records to help understand the pupil better is one. Included in these records are the results of objective or standardized tests of special aptitudes or abilities. The use of the individual interview in helping pupils make decisions is another. Following up our pupils after they leave us and go to work or to college is still another. There is value in this for what it teaches us for future dealing with pupils. The guidance program emphasizes looking at the child as a total individual in his total environment and thus understanding him better.

Junior Members Prove Younger Generation OK

If you're inclined to feel the younger generation sometimes irresponsible, you will be interested in what American Junior Red Cross members accomplished last year in meeting human needs at home and overseas.

On the domestic scene, American youngsters gave millions of volunteer hours in making hospitals, orphanages, and homes for the aged more pleasant places to live by providing holiday decorations, musical and dramatic entertainment and hand-made gifts. Last year they made nearly 4,000,000 garments, toys, ash trays, and other useful gifts for this program.

Then with their own nickels and dimes they sent almost $1,500,000 worth of gifts abroad to ease health and school conditions of children in war-scarred countries. Included were 46,083 educational gift boxes packed by the students themselves with pencils, paper, soap, toothbrushes, and other overseas luxuries and 215 high school chests each filled with school, health, and recreational supplies for 50 pupils.

To encourage world friendship among children and young people, American Juniors sent 2,500 school correspondence albums, 5,000 pieces of student art, and 1,000 albums of recorded American school music to schools in 50 foreign countries.

Newton Juniors through their High, Junior High and Elementary School Councils, through in-school Councils, teacher sponsors and student activities have taken an active part in Junior Red Cross programs, with special attention to Community Chapter, and Cushing Hospital requests.

The Senior Red Cross is very proud of its Juniors.

Miss Marilyn Murphy, Waban, and Miss Carol Holmes, Newtonville, have just been elected president and vice-president respectively of the Women's Student Union at Middlebury College, Vermont.

Miss Helen F. Bloom, daughter of Mr. Arthur A. Bloom of 42 Nathan road, Newton, was graduated from the Vesper George School of Art in the February class. Miss Bloom specialized in Interior Design and recently received an award from the Wedgewood Society for a fabric design inspired by the Wedgewood Exhibit at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

167 Offer Blood At Bloodmobile

One hundred and sixty-seven donors offered a pint of their blood "to help save a life" when the Bloodmobile Unit visited Newton on March 22 and 23. Of this number, 144 persons were able to donate blood and the other 23 persons were rejected because of health reasons.

Mrs. Hannah Levensohn, director of the Blood Program, Newton Chapter, said that the results of this visit were most satisfactory and that the Newton Chapter is greatly indebted to members of Rotary and Kiwanis, students of Andover-Newton Theological School and Boston College, employees of Raytheon Mfg. Co., and its "regulars" for their interest and cooperation in the blood program.

Much credit for the success of this program belongs, in addition to the donors of course, to the staff of volunteer Red Cross workers.

Saw Mill Brook Parkway Bill Given Leave to Withdraw

After a hearing before the Metropolitan Affairs Committee at the State House, the bill for the extension of Saw Mill Brook Parkway in Oak Hill Park, from Horace James Circle in Brookline to Route 128 in Needham, was given leave to withdraw.

Due to the size of the project and the expense it would involve, the city sought to have the state, through the Metropolitan District Commission, construct the Parkway.

Residents of Oak Hill Park opposed the measure who objected to the traffic which would result from such a parkway. However, the bill was worded so that the parkway could be built from Indianapolis. The women officers will be paid $50 a month. Their classification has been approved by state civil service officials.

The Finance Committee cut about $100,000 from the mayor's recommendations, which were about $400,000 below the estimates of the department heads. Pay raises averaged about two dollars a week for clerks and supervisory employees, with increases for department heads ranging up to $500.

The total appropriated at the close of the budget meeting was $8,473,141.30 from tax revenue, and $358,923.14 from Water Revenue, for a total of $8,832,064.44. $1,132,690.57 was appropriated in advance of the budget, thus making the total budget appropriations $9,964,754.01.

Appropriations for new equipment were separated from general office expenses for better comparison in the future.

Chairman Julian D. Anthony of the Finance stated that with the passage of the budget, there was every reason to believe that the tax rate would not increase, but would remain the same as last year, $36.

Budget Meeting Highlights—

Chairman Anthony of the Finance Committee stated that the interest on the funded debt was $17,869.64, or approximately 12 percent of the entire budget and represented $4 on the tax rate.

He also stated that the case load of the Public Welfare department was increasing steadily and expressed hope that $50,000 would cover the increase this year over last year . . . Alderman Clyde S. Casady protested the refusal to approve $3,400 for a traffic engineer . . . A $100 increase was given to the chairman of the Board of Assessors and to the two associate assessors . . . The Board refused to allow vacation pay for the License Board . . . Alderman Winfield C. Anderson objected to the appropriation of $7500 for the Research Library, which included a raise of $100 for the director . . . Alderman Paul S. Rich raised objections to the board's refusal to grant requested pay increases for them, and for four lieutenants. He asserted that the Fire department is one of the important adjuncts of the city . . . The city physician made 1022 examinations of city employees, 802 of welfare cases, 18 employees seeking retirement, and 42 prisoners at police headquarters last year . . . Alderman Rich and Clyde S. Casady objected to cuts in the appropriation providing for fencing and back stops at the Newton Upper Falls playground . . . then more and more consideration by the aldermen . . . and then the work accomplished, they adjourned at 2 a.m. Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Victor F. Morgan of Auburndale and her daughter, Mrs. D. R. G. Williams of Troy, N. Y., have just returned from Florida where they have been vacationing since early in January.

Meeting-

Dr. Randolph S. Merrill of 40 Foster street, Newtonville, and C. Russell Eddy, a trust officer of the New England Trust Company, Boston, have been elected members of the Board of Trustees of the Walker Missionary Homes, Inc., in Auburndale.

The Walker Missionary Homes, consisting of six modern buildings on a site of three and a half acres, have cared for three generations of Congregational missionaries and their children during furloughs and at the age of retirement. The homes were founded by Mrs. Augustus Walker in 1868, who was herself a missionary in the Near East over 50 years ago.

The president of the Board of Trustees of the Walker Missionary Homes, Inc., is Waldo W. Cole of Auburndale, and the other members of the board include Forest Davidson of Wellesley, vice president; Harold B. Belcher of Melrose, treasurer; Dr. Mark H. Ward of Newton Highlands, secretary; Mrs. D. Brewer Eddy of Newtonville, assistant treasurer; Dr. Alden H. Clark of Wellesley, Frank A. Day of Newton, Mrs. Raymond A. Dudley of Auburndale, Sergeant Wellman of Topsfield, Mrs. Charles A. Proctor of Swampscott, and Rev. Francis L. Cooper of Campello, Mass.

Students-

Marcia Silver, George Thornton, Betty May Tribble, Samuel Turner, and Joseph Wright. Faculty advisers for the group are Miss Mary Lannigan, English teacher, and Mr. Robert Harris, social studies teacher.

Activities of the group include writing letters and exchanging information on the two communities and their environments. Raising money to defray the expenses of travel to Newport and of hospitality here will be an individual and group project. The pupils from Rhode Island are to leave Newport early in the morning on the appointed day and to be here for the opening of school. After visiting classes and having lunch at school, they plan to visit a few places of interest in the Boston area and return to Newton High School for supper before their departure.

The boys and girls from Newton may expect a memorable day on their return visit. The entire day will be spent in visiting and sightseeing, and the high school and Red Cross plan in being generously supplemented by the kind offers of the Army and Navy bases.

phase of the matter will deal particularly with Newton Corner.

Parking areas and meters came in for a lengthy discussion and Mr. Mattson, chairman of the Aldermanic Committee studying this matter, presented a chart showing the two areas now being provided at Newton Corner and stated that title had been taken to the land. A petition before the Aldermen to increase the set-back at Pearl street from 150 feet to 165 feet was also discussed and some speakers stated the effect of this move would be to decrease the permanent parking space. As a result the association suggested consideration of taking additional property as the reduced area would accommodate only about 80 cars. Time was not available at the meeting to discuss parking meters by Alderman Rich and it was stated that this discussion will be gone into fully at the April meeting of the Association.

Officers of the association elected at the meeting for the coming year were: president, W. E. Hopkins; 1st vice president, Murray Marble; 2nd vice president, Lynn W. Ferguson; treasurer, Dr. Harold L. Higgins; secretary, Miss Abigail Hamblin.

formation and Central Purchase and Supply. Mr. Donald P. Hurd, State Relations Officer of the American National Red Cross, addressed the group on the importance of careful planning and practice by each committee in advance, in order that each individual may understand clearly his function and be able to act calmly and efficiently, should a disaster occur in Newton. He also described a new plan of mutual assistance between the twenty chapters surrounding Boston, whereby each is informed of the supplies and resources of the others, so that outside aid may be ready.

Mr. Hampton assigned to each sub-committee chairman a hypothetical disaster situation which "could happen here." Each committee will work out its function in such a situation and be prepared to report on its organization at the next Disaster Committee Meeting.

In discussing the matter of zoning, the officials in charge of the meeting felt it would be well to take this matter up at a special meeting which will be called for the latter part of April. At this time, consideration of a report now nearing completion and prepared by Professor Adams regarding the zoning proposals of the entire city, would be ready. This

If the supposed Census taker undertakes to conduct any business other than the collection of official Census information, he betrays himself because official Census takers are subject to the loss of their jobs if they combine their work with other activities such as soliciting donations, selling house-to-house, advertising, etc. Housewives who have reason to believe that they are being imposed upon by a faker are urged by both police and Census authorities to immediately notify police headquarters and give authorities a description of the suspected individual.

Catherine F. Regan

Miss Catherine F. Regan, 83, of 78 Clinton Place, Newton Centre, daughter of the late Dennis and Julia (Shinnick) Regan, died Saturday at her home after a brief illness.

She was a native of Newton and leaves a cousin, Cornelius Regan of Watertown.

More Suicides In Past Two Months Than Ever

Dr. Thomas M. Gallagher, Medical Examiner for this district, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Kiwanis Club at its meeting Wednesday.

In his talk he stressed the many unnecessary deaths which occur in the home through carelessness, such as bathtub, accidents, slippery floors and obstacles left on stairways. He also advised the throwing away of old medicines and keeping poisons out of reach of children. He also said that many people are not too particular who they have in their home to baby sit and consequently cases of smothering are not too infrequent.

"We have had the highest number of suicides in this area within the last two months than ever occurred here before," Dr. Gallagher stated.

Max Zides, the Hum of Hum and Strum, entertained the members and guests.

The Red Cross is on call 24 hours a day, ready to spring to action in time of crisis. Give now.

They're Meeting to Improve your Telephone Service

At regular intervals the manager of your local telephone office sits down with his force to talk things over. To discuss ways of improving service, to analyze projects that are under way, to announce future plans.

BETTER PARTY LINE SERVICE

A major project in every telephone office today is party line service. Here, our engineers are working closely with local people, to see that every improvement possible is made. Each locality is being reviewed and checked so as to use new facilities, as they become available for individual and two-party lines, to the best possible advantage.

BETTER USE OF PARTY LINES

Every effort is made to iron out misunderstandings about the proper use of party lines. Usually it's simply a matter of getting people to cooperate. Sometimes a letter does it; sometimes a friendly telephone call; then again a personal visit helps.

As a rule, however, people cooperate on their own. They know that the simple everyday courtesies that make party line service good service are appreciated and generally returned.

A Costly Victory

No longer construed as news, the recent settlement of the soft coal strike, might well call for reflection on the whole matter.

On the surface, the settlement looks like another victory for the union. The basic wage of the miners was increased 70 cents a day. And contributions to the welfare fund, which are paid entirely by the operators through a fixed tax on each ton of coal mined, were also raised.

However, this kind of "victory" may turn out to be costly indeed to all concerned. The miners, who worked spasmodically or not at all for nine months, lost huge sums which they never will make up. Most of them have spent their savings and many are heavily in debt. The operators, likewise, lost a vast amount of business and some of it, as time may prove, has been lost permanently to the other fuels with which coal must compete for markets. A consumer wants two things—dependability of supply and the most reasonable price. If he can't get it from one industry, he goes elsewhere.

Despite the settlement, the case for legislation which will prevent labor monopolies, and bring the unions within the scope of the antitrust laws, was never stronger. Unless a strong bill is passed, the public will continue to have no protection against ruthless labor czars.

It is not a question of depriving labor of any legitimate right. It is simply a question of making labor equal before the law with industry.

Help to Bring About Reality

More than any April in history, April of 1950 signifies the springtime of hope in science's implacable war against cancer.

It's not that cancer is likely to be conquered this April. Chances are that it won't be. But in April, officially designated by Congress as Cancer Control Month, the American Cancer Society sharply outlines the tremendous progress that has been made in cancer research and points out the paths that must be followed toward the ever closer conquest of the disease that Americans fear more than any other.

The wondrous truth is this: the defeat of cancer is no longer a tremulously hypothetical possibility. Each day brings its conquest closer to actual reality.

Consider and consider advisedly that cancer, from which 8500 Massachusetts citizens will die this year, is one of mankind's greatest enemies.

For all of us who hate and fear cancer, and who does not? April is the springtime of hope. When you give to the Cancer Campaign, you help to make the seedlings of hope grow into reality.

The Green

With March ending, we yearn for green, the green that soothes the eye and warms the heart. Not the thick green of the pine, or the dull green of the cedar, but the new fresh green of grass and of maple leaves no bigger than a squirrel's ear and of tulip swords and daffodil lances. The green of a violet's leaf and calyx. The green that mists the hills and livens all the valleys.

We become impatient now, as always at this time of year. Brooks flow again, and we would hear spring music in their hurrying waters. Dogwood buds beat the branches, and we would have them swell and crack their casings. A robin struts the lawn, and we would have a dozen robins in full song, and a flight of warblers besides.

But most of all we would have the world green again, forgetting that first must come the blush of the maples opening their flower buds, and the silvered tassels of catkins on the willows and the birches. First must come that warming amber glow to the withes of the weeping willow beside the pond—and it now gives only a hint of that glow. First must come the ruddy color that livens the osiers along the streams. First must come the pale yellow mist of small bloom in the spice bush in the lowlands.

After these preliminaries comes the green. There is a sequence and a timing in these matters. Not that the green is wholly absent, even now. Skunk cabbage begins to unfurl its broad leaves in the bogland, and beside the brooks, on sheltered banks, there are patches of green grass warmed by flowing water. But these are signs, not the full event. Promises to whet our appetite. And so we wait for April, close ahead, green April with anemones in her wind-blown hair.

Humble But Mighty

Have you got troubles? If you haven't, you're one of those rare individuals about whom maybe the poets write.

But most of us have plenty and we've been thinking about the matter and have come to the conclusion that every home should have at least one rocking chair to promote love of family, richness of friendship and last but not least, to forget our troubles.

Your body settles easily as you rock back and forth. A hurt, an anger, cannot live,

Political Highlights

Republican politicians show no disposition whatever to make any haste in clarifying their muddled party picture or to let the people know who their candidate for Governor will be next November.

This is how matters stand at the moment: A G. O. P. delegation last week waited upon Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., and urged him to reconsider and run for Governor this year arguing that he owed it to the party to do so.

Lodge agreed only to think it over, but those close to him report that there is no possibility of his leaving Washington for the hurly-burly of Beacon Hill and that the Republican party will have to look elsewhere for its gubernatorial nominee.

Former Governor Robert F. Bradford this week formally withdrew as a candidate for Governor. In his prepared statement he said after 14 years devoted to public service he is concentrating his time and attention on the practice of law and has no intention of leaving that practice. This came as a shock to many who believed him to be the strongest G. O. P. possibility.

Former Lieutenant Governor Arthur W. Coolidge will run, barring, of course, the extremely slim possibility that Lodge might be prevailed upon to revise his plans.

Former Attorney General Clarence A. Barnes declares that he will run come what may. Some Republican politicos think it will be possible to get Barnes out of the fight with the promise of a judgeship. Others aren't so certain and suspect that the only way to eliminate the former aggressive Attorney General would be to defeat him in a primary, which would not be too easy.

Senate President Harris S. Richardson and Republican House Leader Charles Gibbons both obviously would like to run for Governor and have all the appearances of men standing around and waiting for somebody to invite them to do so.

The average Republican voter, meanwhile, is becoming a little impatient over the situation. He would like somebody to speak up and say something. The air of political restraint is becoming a little heavy.

The Democrats are overworking the old bromide that you can't beat somebody with nobody, which, of course, would be more to the point if the election were not seven months away.

Governor Dever, of course, is an announced candidate for reelection to a second term, and the only thing that would have him out of the race is an appointment by President Truman to a high federal post such as U. S. Attorney General.

At the moment there appears to be little likelihood of that happening. If it should, you would see a terrific fight between Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin and ex-Mayor James M. Curley for the Democratic nomination for the Governorship.

and the troubled mind is soothed, lulled, and gradually more happier thoughts occupy the world in which you live. Problems that loom huge and hard to solve seem to untangle gently as you sway back and forth.

He who sways in the rocking chair finds new courage, peace of mind and soul, and bestows a freshness of spirit, renewed vigor, new hope.

There's something about a rocking chair that makes the whole world a big, friendly place for young and old. Try it and no doubt you'll find it the humble, simple answer to a million ills.

Most folks have presence of mind—the trouble is absence of thought.

Barber: "Was your tie red when you came in?" Customer: "Of course not." Barber: "Gosh."

It was James F. Byrnes who said: "too many people are thinking of security instead of opportunity. They seem to be more afraid of life than death."

Collier's hit the nail on the head when it said that taxes "reduce employment—penalize consumption—discourage business."

We Americans eat better, more healthful and more nutritious meals than we ever did before. We consume more of the vital proteins—elements which have a direct bearing on stamina and physical and mental well-being. We're ahead of grandpa!

Henry R. Luce, writing in Fortune, recently said: "We must give up the illusion both comfortable and inane, that Soviet Communism is something to be contended with by food baskets from Lady Bountiful. Far though we are from its brutality, we must learn to see Soviet Communism as the modern barbarian. It is the job of statesmanship armed with military power to hold the line against the barbarian—the line and the outposts and the frontiers."

Want to bet we'll not have any more snow before the good old summer time sets in? If you do, you'll find plenty of takers.

We heartily agree. Harold E. Stassen has said: "The quality of health service is much more important to the good health of the people than the quantity of the health services."

An axiom worth repeating: Mind your own business and in time you'll have a business of your own to mind.

Wonder what has happened to the proposal to have a large business block and theatre erected on the site of the Mason School at Newton Centre?

Well, at least it's been settled to give everyone a chance to see "Paul Revere" ride again, be it day or night.

Know Your

City Government
The Newton SchoolsBy DR. JAMES B. PALMER
Chairman, School Committee

Another in a series of feature articles presented by the Graphic as a public service to better acquaint the citizens of Newton with their government.

Dr. James B. Palmer began his third two-year term on the School Committee in January at which time he was elected Chairman.

Western Pennsylvania is his birthplace but he has lived in Newton since 1936. Three of his four children have graduated from the Newton Public Schools, the youngest at present a member of the senior class at Newton High School.

Earning his bachelor's degree and his doctorate at Cornell University, Dr. Palmer is not a stranger to public education. For 15 years he was associated with education as a teacher and administrator and has had experience on elementary, high school, teachers' college and university levels. Since that time his interest in education has been maintained through his vocation, educational publishing. He is Editor-in-Chief of Ginn & Company, publishers in Boston.

Dr. Palmer's avocations are woodworking, traveling and music.

Q. How many children are there in the Newton Schools?

Certainly that is not a difficult question to answer at the moment. There are in all 11,856 children and young people. You see there are more than just children. Beginning with the oldest there are 100 young men and women in the Newton Junior College, the only institution of its kind in New England. Then there are 2,083 boys and girls in the senior high school, 306 in the Newton Trade School, 2,576 in junior high school, 6,795 in elementary school, and 1,006 in kindergarten.

Q. You emphasized those words "at the moment." Evidently there is more to be said on that point.

Well, as of October 1, we had 350 more children in the schools this year than last. And our best estimate for the increase next year is 250. This will be the last year of small increase. Thereafter, our schools will increase far more rapidly than anything experienced to date. In this connection, we have taken on more than 100 additional children just since October.

Q. How do you make your estimates?

Let me say first that estimating the number of children that have to be accommodated the next year is always important, but it becomes very essential when the enrollment is increasing rapidly. After all, there must be enough teachers, classrooms, and desks for them. That requires planning well in advance.

Q. How are the estimates actually made? Don't they have to be quite accurate?

Of course they must be accurate. Well, this past December, our Superintendent, Mr. Gores, enlisted the help of Chief of Police Purcell. Chief Purcell was willing to have his force take a census of all the children five years of age and under as they were checking over the voting list. Consequently, we now can figure, quite accurately, how many children will be entering kindergarten and first grade each year. Those figures are checked closely with other facts at hand, the new homes that have been and are being built, how many children will be brought in by these new families, the average migration into and out of the city, and so on. This gives us not only the number of children that must be accommodated next September, but we also know with reasonable accuracy just what school district they will be.

Q. Do you find the increase is located where you have the most room?

On the contrary. The largest number of children and the most increase in enrollment are coming in new sections where there are no buildings now, or where the buildings are already full. For just that reason alone the City of Newton has a large school building program well underway.

Q. What do you mean, underway?

At the present time we are about to move children into necessary additions to the Ward School, the Franklin School, and into the new Williams School later this spring. All those accommodations will be fully occupied. Then, the new Memorial School is being rushed for occupancy next fall in Oak Hill Memorial Park.

Q. Why the rush?

The facts are that there will be about nine classrooms of children ready for school over there in Oak Hill Park next September, so you can see there is real urgency in the matter.

Q. When is this urgency going to be over?

There is no certain answer to that question. I might answer it by asking another. When is the City of Newton going to stop growing? We do know, however, that before this current wave of high birth rate has passed through the schools in the 1950's, our school population may have exceeded 15,000. That calls for many more classrooms than we have now. Of course, this problem would be more disconcerting were it not for two facts. First, the building program is well underway. Plans for the buildings needed in 1951 are already in the blueprints. Second, we hope to have an annual census of the pre-school children so that the building program may be adjusted each year to be in full accord with the needs of the whole city and of each section.

Q. While you are talking about new buildings, won't you say something about the need to replace some of the very old buildings in the city?

I'm not surprised that you raise that question because we have a number of buildings that are more than fifty years old. There is reason to think of replacing those as well as to house this increasing enrollment. The present building program includes such plans. No doubt the housing for additional children is of first importance, but replacing the oldest, outworn structures is likewise necessary. The heartening feature of the school building program, as it is laid out, is that while we pay first attention to the matter of supplying classrooms for growth of school population, at the same time several of the oldest buildings are being replaced.

Q. If we are going to have a lot more children in the schools, we must also have more teachers. We've heard a lot about a shortage of teachers. Does that affect us here in Newton?

It certainly does. Newton has always been the proud of the high quality of its teachers. There is real truth in the old adage "As is

Tells of Visits
To Schools Here

Peter Wagner of Midda, Germany, who is in this country on invitation of the U. S. Government to observe American schools, was the speaker at the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club Monday. Newton is one of the schools chosen for him to make a survey.

Opening his talk, he said that he is always being asked what he thinks of American schools and had been here less than an hour when he was asked to make a statement.

He stated it is a difficult question to answer because the difference between German and American schools is great. In Germany the high schools begin much earlier than here and there are only six elementary grades.

The students in Germany, he felt, become "stuffed up with knowledge," but their courses are not such that they are adapted to living. All students think of scholastic achievement and do not make the adjustment to living.

He found the freedom in the American schools very interesting and believed American students develop self-discipline and are taught to prepare for life.

Democracy is making slow progress in Germany, he contended, although Germans are responding somewhat to the American influence and that while no country likes an army of occupation, the American occupation has not been too bad.

Personal contact, in his opinion, is the way to get peace because peace comes when folks know each other better.

Cub Scouts To Hold Own Rodeo

Cub Scouts of Quinobequin District, composed of packs from Waban, Upper Falls and the Highlands are planning a Wild West Show and Rodeo to be held April 29.

The event will take place at Cold Springs Playground, Newton Highlands from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Included on the four hour program are pony rides, skits of the Old West, Cowboys, Indians and a midway where refreshments will be available.

The Steering Committee composed of Everett W. Hersey, Donald H. Ryder, Chauncey Stevens, Norman Greene, E. Alan Chesbro, Edward Booth and Fred Newcomb have announced that in the event of rain the show will be held on the following Saturday, May 6.

Donna L. Grunden, of 43 Winchester road, Newton, and Suzanne K. Manning, of 1307 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, stopped at the Beckman Tower Hotel during their recent visit to New York City.

the teacher, so is the school." The present School Committee is firmly resolved to maintain the standard in Newton. The Superintendent and his staff are equally anxious to fill vacancies and new positions with the best teachers available. To get the best teachers we must keep Newton as a city and as a school system attractive to top notch professional teachers. There are numerous conditions to be maintained. Not the least important is adequate salaries. We must recognize that Newton no longer pays the highest salaries in Massachusetts. We may not have to pay the highest salaries but we must at least be in a position to attract teachers of the quality we want to our schools.

Q. Aren't the salaries for teachers already on our staff also important?

As a matter of fact they are more important. No citizen in any community begrudge good salaries for capable teachers. We in Newton can be justly proud of the excellent quality of our teaching staff, and by the same token we have a fine schedule of salaries. We can be proud of that also. If and when adjustments are needed, they should and, I trust, will be made.

Q. What about the quality of work in the schools? Are you satisfied with that?

That strikes me as the $64 question, and indeed it is. The answer is both yes and no. Let me hasten to say yes again. There are few school systems in the United States, and I happen to be well informed on the matter, that are as good as the Newton schools. That is not due to mere chance. Newton has always had good schools because it has striven to have better schools. Schools don't stand still. Either they improve or they deteriorate. Only in the schools where the teachers are consciously striving to improve their work, do children have instruction of the highest quality. And so we can be pleased with the standard of work in the Newton schools, but we should be no more satisfied than the teachers are. We ought to have another hour to discuss the study groups, the professional interest, the curricular developments in Newton, that are full assurance of a steadily improving program.

Volunteer Help Could Break the Brink Case

"Some good citizens could break the Brink case by coming forward and volunteering needed information," Federal Bureau of Investigation Agent Lawrence Healy said, addressing a meeting of the Men's Club of the Church of the Messiah in the parish house.

Agent Healy told his audience that the bureau is strictly a fact-finding organization which will enter a case only when there has been a violation of some federal act. Others with federal authority for investigation he named as the Immigration and Post Office inspectors and narcotic agents. His office, he said, may be called for such cases as violation of the federal bank robbing act, the white slavery act and the Dyer act, which concerns the transportation of stolen autos across state lines.

He stated that there are 125,000,000 fingerprint cards filed in Washington, of which 19,000,000 are in the criminal file and more than $3,000 are in the fugitive file. A request to the bureau for a print classification usually can be fulfilled in 24 hours, he declared. An exchange with foreign countries is maintained.

Other files which have assisted the bureau in the apprehension of criminals include the fraudulent check listing, file of types of firearms and typewriters, and another by which the make and year of a car may be established from a smear of paint off its body. One of the invaluable aids has been the nick-name file, he said.

Six graduates of the FBI Academy at Washington are members of the Newton Police Force, the speaker said as he described some of the functions of the bureau at the local level. Heading the list of those graduates is Police Chief Philip Purcell.

Preceding the lecture, supper was served by ladies of the Tuesday Evening Club, directed by Mrs. Joseph Hibsher.

Officers of the Messiah Men's Club include: Thomas Wilson, president; Joseph Hibsher, vice-president; F. Bennett Jackson, treasurer, and Albert Marshall, secretary. Rev. Richard P. McClinton, pastor of the church, is chaplain of the group.

Top Wrestling at Waltham Armory Next Wednesday

Wrestling continues to attract big crowds each Wednesday at the state armory in Waltham under the auspices of the Waltham unit of the National Guard. First bout goes on at 8:30 and prices are at a moderate scale, so moderate in fact, that the armory has been filled each week with mat fans.

Last Wednesday night girl wrestlers were on the program and there is every expectation that they may return April 5 for the feature. Last week Therese Theis and Lillian Bitter displayed their athletic dexterity and charm for the many armory patrons.

Matchmaker Fred Bruno, noted New England promoter of all-star professional wrestling, is now mapping the card for the coming show from a stable of wrestlers which include such names as Hilda Hild, Therese Theis, Shirley Stemple, Guy LaRose, Frederick N. Von Schacht, The Phantom Brothers and others.

Fans can secure the best seats by making reservations early by telephone to Waltham 5-0623.

B.C. Club Wins Second Game for Championship

By ED PISELLI

The Newton City League, American Division championship was decided Monday night when a well-organized B. C. Club paced by some spectacular set shooting by Ron Hickey, made it two straight over defending champion Gath's, composed of Boston University football players, 66 to 61, at the Bigelow Junior High gym, thereby emerging the victors of the American Division. The best-of-three play-off series started last Wednesday night between the two contenders, and at that time Hickey also came in for individual honors when he popped in a last-second basket to break a 60-all tie to give his club their initial victory.

However, high scorer for the evening's championship tilt was Gath's Don Wallace, netting an astounding 31 points and treating the overflow crowd to some fancy shooting. B. C.'s winning combination was made up of Hickey, with 23, Bob Callahan, chipping in 19, and Mike Roarke contributing 11 points to the Eagle's win.

Except for the first quarter when the Gath's sported a slight 20-17 edge, the B. C. Club led the parade the rest of the fray when Hickey's fine floor shooting was supplemented by the added finesse of Callahan and Roarke. The Eagles out-pointed Gath's in the second frame, 12-8, and carried a narrow 29-28 margin with them at the half.

Never for once letting up, B. C. jumped ahead on a seven point scoring spree at the start of the third period on two foul shots and a layup authored by Roarke and one from the foul stripe and another layup by Callahan, making it a tidy 36-28 margin.

Gath's threatened with a last gallant try late in the finale, when they edged up to a 63-59 count, but never were able to overcome the steady B. C. Club which went on to add three more digits while allowing the former champs one last pointer, making it a final 66-61 victory.

Other high scorers for the Gath's Terriers were George Kastan, with 11, and Tom Lavery, with 12 markers.

The preliminary game deciding the championship of the National A. Division was easily captured by the Nonantum A. A., tipping Auburndale, 39-17, they taking two out of three of the playoff round.

High for the N. A. A. was Carlo Scalfi with 11 points, followed by Dan Muise with nine markers. The final rubber game was a lead pipe cinch for the champs, scoring almost at will and leading their opponents throughout the entire game.

SERIOUS SITUATION THREATENS —

LOCAL EMPLOYMENT LOCAL PAY-ROLLS
LOCAL BUSINESS LOCAL TAXES

BECAUSE:—

1. A Bill is being prepared in Washington, D. C., to be presented to Congress, which will recommend a drastic reduction in the Tariff on imported rubber and canvas footwear.
2. The proposed Tariff Reduction would bring foreign-made merchandise into this country at such low prices that domestic manufacturers could not compete.
3. Such reduction in the present tariff would practically turn over the production of Rubber and Canvas Footwear to low-wage manufacturers in Japan and Czechoslovakia.
4. It is doubtful if the Hood Rubber Company could maintain even one-half of its present employment and certainly could not operate profitably, under proposed tariff reductions.

READ WHAT THIS MEANS TO YOU AND THIS COMMUNITY —

The Hood Rubber Company now employs in excess of 5,000 people. The annual payroll runs into millions of dollars — money which the employees spend in this area for family necessities and comforts. If the employment was drastically cut — more unemployed people would increase welfare costs — and that means higher taxes.

If the payroll was greatly reduced, providing much less money to be spent by remaining employees — local businesses would be seriously affected and the jobs of many clerks and service people endangered.

WE MUST FIGHT AGAINST THE PROPOSED TARIFF REDUCTION AND PROTECT BUSINESS AND EMPLOYMENT IN OUR COMMUNITY.

HERE'S WHAT YOU CAN DO —

THIS SITUATION VITALLY CONCERNS EVERY CITIZEN!

Tear off this coupon, paste on the back of a Post Card and mail this protest to — Senator Leverett Saltonstall, or Representative John W. McCormack, or Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., or Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers — address, Washington, D. C. DO IT TODAY! IT'S IMPORTANT! YOU'LL HELP SAVE JOBS, BUSINESS AND THE COMMUNITY.

TARIFF REDUCTION ON RUBBER AND CANVAS FOOTWEAR

Any proposed reduction in present Tariff which applies to rubber and canvas footwear is a serious threat to the economic stability of this entire community.

I am opposed to any such action which would endanger my own security and that of my neighbors.

Brighten That Corner

We have a small home with living and dining rooms across the front, joined by an arch. We need a new rug and cannot match the green leaf rug which will be used in the dining room. Should we get one close to it or can we use a floral in a different color?

Also, please tell us what color paper to use. We have natural woodwork, rose drapes, maroon two-piece set, one blue and one floral chair. Rooms are 15.6 by 11.6 and 10 by 11.6.

Mrs. H. D.

The rooms will look larger if the floor covering is basically the same color. If you cannot match the leaf pattern, you might like a green sculptured or floral on a green background. If the latter, choose a small, overall print.

To coordinate your colors, we suggest paper in gray, rose and green, again in a small print. (A plain rug will be better if you have patterned paper.)

Should slipcovers be in your plans, use a burgundy and green stripe for the one chair, plain green for the other. The davenport could remain as is.

My bedroom walls are light blue wide stripes with one wall in a flowered red, white and deeper blue. The rug has a deep blue background with chartreuse, red and lighter blue. A new lounge chair has a white background with red, chartreuse and dark green flowers. Furniture is blond. Windows are standard size, one on the side wall and two in the front.

At present I have white ruffled curtains and a white spread. This I want to change. What would you suggest? I thought of red satin drapes and spread, but wouldn't that be too much red?

How does chartreuse go with blue? Would you bring in another color?

Mrs. E. T.

Certain shades of blue go very well with true chartreuse. We agree that red accessories would be a little too much. Rather than bring in another color, and because of the figured walls, we'd have plain pale blue draperies and a plain chartreuse spread. If the blue has a gray or purple cast rather than yellow, the color scheme should be smart but restful. Solid colors will be your best bet because of the figured walls, carpet and chair.

Q. What temperature should be used for deep fat frying meat?

A. Uncooked meat (for example, liver or ground meat croquettes), use 350 deg. F. to 360 deg. F. For cooked meats use 360 deg. F. to 365 deg. F.
